Big B52s Pound Mountain Pass Supply Route

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52s pounded North Viet Nam for the second time in the war today, again attacking the Mu Gia Pass on the supply route to the south.

In their first raid on the Communist north 15 days ago, the Strategic Air Command's eight-engine planes dropped 700 tons of bombs which set off landslides that reportedly closed the pass. But a week later U.S. spokesmen said North Vietnamese workers had reopened the mountain roadway and men and supplies for the Viet Cong were again able to get through.

The U.S. spokesman said no assessment had been made yet of the damage inflicted today by the raid on the mountain gateway on the Laotian frontier 250 miles south of Hanoi.

While the long-range American bombers from Guam struck the north, Viet Cong terrorists singled out a new target in a month-long wave of violence in Saigon. A powerful mine exploded in the midst of civilian construction workers, killing eight South Koreans and three Vietnamese and injuring more than 40 persons, including some children.

In the ground war, the U.S. 1st Infantry Division and the Marines continued two major searches for the Viet Cong, but so far reported only meager results.

After four days of scouring the jungles north of Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian frontier, the "Big Red One" reported killing 15 Viet Cong and capturing 570 tons of rice in Operation Birmingham.

The Marines said they had killed 31 Viet Cong since they started Operation Georgia seven days ago in Quang Nam Province south of Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon.

Patrols of the U.S. 25th Division killed 10 guerrillas and captured eight enemy weapons in skirmishes in the Ho Bo Woods a few miles northwest of Saigon, a spokesman said. He said U.S. casualties were light.

A Viet Cong battalion paid dearly for an attack on Dat Do, a government outpost 43 miles southeast of Saigon, Tuesday night. The guerrillas also attacked two nearby Vietnamese platoons, inflicting moderate casualties, a Vietnamese spokesman said.

The Viet Cong, left behind 78 bodies after they were driven off by close air strikes and artillery fire, a Vietnamese spokesman said.

U.S. Assumes North Viets Pilot MIGs

SAIGON South Viet Nam (AP) — American airmen in Saigon assume that the MIG jets they are encountering over North Viet Nam are flown by North Vietnamese pilots trained by the Soviet Union.

U.S. officials here also assume that the MIGs are operating from bases in North Viet Nam, not in Red China.

"The assumption is that the pilots are North Vietnamese," said one qualified U.S. officer who has access to intelligence reports. "We have no reason to believe they are Chinese or even Russians."

He added that he had no information on whether the Chinese possessed any of the Delta-wing MIG21s.

American fliers have clashed three times with the late-model MIGs over North Viet Nam since Saturday. One encounter occurred 35 miles from the Red Chinese frontier, giving rise to speculation that the Soviet-designed jets could be operating from China.

Official American spokesmen here say they have no information to suggest that the MIGs came from China. U.S. officials say the North Vietnamese have about 15 of the MIG21s and about 45 more of the older model MIG17s, which also tangled with American jets over the weekend.

OUT OF THE GREASE — Sean Flynn, son of the late swash-buckling actor Errol Flynn, related how he fought his way out of a Viet Cong ambush while on patrol with a Special Forces green beret outfit in the jungle near Saigon. "I thought I was greased," said Flynn, a civilian free lance photographer. Flynn has been in Viet Nam for three months, most of it with Special Forces troops.

Rent Subsidy Backers Stung by Panel Rebuff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces plan an all-out push on the Senate floor today to restore funds for a controversial rent subsidy program.

Democratic leaders were stung by a surprise 15-12 apportionment committee vote Monday to eliminate the $12 million rent allotment from a supplemental money bill. They worked feverishly in advance of the floor showdown to nail down the needed votes.

And they had substantial help from the White House. President Johnson repeatedly has endorsed the rent supplement plan as a key weapon in the battle to provide decent housing for low income families.

Under the plan, the federal government would pay the difference between 25 per cent of a family's income and the rent for adequate housing in projects built and operated by nonprofit organizations. None of the subsidies would go to individual, private landlords.

In passing the omnibus 1965 housing bill, the Senate defeated 47 to 40 a Republican move to kill the rent subsidy authorization. Later senators voted 45 to 37 to keep in an appropriations bill a $12 million item for the rent subsidies. But the House balked and the funds were dropped at that time.

This year, in acting on the measure before the Senate today, the House supported the new program. It turned down, 198 to 190, a GOP move to kill the subsidies.

As approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee, the bill contains $2.3 billion in dozen housing units.

It calls for total desegregation of all grades by the fall of 1967 under the "freedom of choice" plan.

Many school boards in the South which voluntarily desegregated have been claiming foul over the new Office of Education rule for compliance with the Civil Rights Act.

The boards say that even though they agreed to lift racial barriers, the regulations make it tougher for them than for other boards which were forced by court order to desegregate.

U.S.-German Talks Slated

BONN, Germany (AP)—West German Defense Minister Kai-Uwe Von Hassel is flying to London to talk with U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and three other leaders of the Atlantic alliance Thursday and Friday about nuclear weapons the Defense Ministry announced today.

The defense ministers of Britain, Italy and Turkey also will take part in the talks, the ministry said. A spokesman said they would concern the use of tactical nuclear weapons now under command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Lodge Returning Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House reports that the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, Henry Cabot Lodge, will return home soon for consultations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Viet Nam may be risking its key military air fields in the Hanoi-Haiphong area by sending its MIG jets to duel with U.S. raiders.

So far the United States has refrained from hitting three air bases which are home to about 75 North Vietnamese MIG jet fighters and IL28 bombers.

The U.S. Air Force has wanted to strike at these bases and the planes on them.

But decision-making officials have been reluctant to approve any such operation until and unless the Communist jets become troublesome.

Solons Doubt Automakers' Safety Stance

Industry's OK Of Federal Rules Is Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The auto industry's declaration it now favors the federal government having the final say in setting safety standards has met with skepticism from some congressmen.

This became apparent Tuesday as industry spokesman John S. Bugas outlined the industry's position to an all-day hearing by the House Commerce Committee.

Bugas made these points: 1. The industry and states should work together with the federal government to formulate broad auto safety standards, covering such things as brake performance, visibility and safety to passengers.

2. Congress should set guidelines, specifying the standards be considered in light of cost versus potential benefit, compatibility of the safety standards with engineering factors and length of installation time.

3. The secretary of commerce would have the power to accept or reject standards formulated by industry or the states and to issue mandatory, binding standards applicable to all new U.S. cars.

"When we're talking about federal standards," Bugas said, "we're talking about broad concepts, major safety characteristics that tell what performance a car shall meet, rather than how these are met."

The auto spokesman then turned to the question of congressional guidelines.

"That sounds good but it doesn't say a whole lot," Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Tex., told Bugas, a Ford Motor Co. vice president, and representatives of the other three major U.S. manufacturers.

"We have not put down language in detail," replied Bugas. "We have introduced concepts." He promised the committee that the auto makers would submit language covering their proposals for consideration. In essence, the industry statement brought it close to the administration's viewpoint.

"Have you caved in?" asked Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio. Bugas said the industry had merely reconsidered some objections that had been raised.

"I'm a little confused," said Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass. "You took a completely different point of view in the Senate."

"It is not a completely different approach," Bugas insisted.

He said the industry's position before Senate committees was that the federal government and states should work together in the Vehicle Equipment Safety Commission, a compact to which 44 states belong, while the auto makers collaborated to

China's Army Turned into Labor Force

HONG KONG (AP) — Red China's three-million-man army has been converted into a huge labor force, a Swedish motion picture cameraman said here after spending six months on the mainland.

"Everywhere you go soldiers are building roads, bridges and factory buildings," Wayland Wieslander told newsmen. "Those who aren't in construction work are laboring in the fields alongside the peasants."

Despite the massive work program, the soldier apparently is not excused from a full program of military training.

"Throughout China," Wieslander said, "the Red army is in constant training. Because the army takes on this tremendous work load, the soldier gets a lot of respect from both the city worker and the peasant."

Wieslander, who first visited China in 1953, said progress there had been very impressive.

"The country is still very poor but everyone is taken up with the idea of building for the future — even if they know it's beyond their lifetime," he said.

"Thirteen years ago, when I visited there I never saw a soldier in the mud digging the ground with the peasant — now it's different."

Pope, Gromkyo Hold Peace Talk

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko held a historic meeting today and agreed to work together for world peace.

The Pope received Gromyko in a private audience and talked with him for 45 minutes. It was the first papal audience ever given a minister of a Communist government.

Gromyko told a news conference they "agreed on the need to work together for peace independently of ideologies."

A brief Vatican communiqué said the meeting was "in continuation of the talk" the pontiff and Gromyko had at United Nations headquarters in New York during the Pope's visit there last October. They had exchanged remarks in a receiving line.

Vatican sources said it was almost certain they discussed the Pope's visit to the U.N. and his repeated pleas for world peace. The sources said the Pope probably urged the Soviet government to use its great influence to ease tensions and seek permanent peace.

The sources added that it was most unlikely that such ticklish subjects as recently worsened relations between the Church and the Communist government of Poland were raised.

After the audience Gromyko visited the Sistine Chapel to see the Michelangelo frescos.

A Soviet plane stood by at Rome's International Airport to take Gromyko and his party back to Moscow after the papal audience. The foreign minister and his wife visited St. Peter's last week, and she toured the Vatican Museum.

Solon Says McNamara Insults Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House Armed Services subcommittee says Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has insulted the subcommittee and impugned its integrity.

And Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., challenged McNamara to disclose the present position of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on the need for a new advanced bomber.

On Sunday night Hebert's subcommittee released a report criticizing the decision to phase out B58 bombers and cut back the number of B52 bombers. On Monday, McNamara charged the report was a "shocking distortion of the true picture."

Then Tuesday, Hebert issued a statement accusing McNamara of an "insulting indictment" and "impugning the integrity of a congressional subcommittee."

Hebert also said McNamara used a "semantic ploy" when he claimed the joint chiefs "did not oppose the decision to eliminate B58 bombers."

"Neither did the joint chiefs support the decision. They deferred their decision," Hebert said.

DETROIT (AP) — The men who pour the drinks are going to try to help the men who can't handle them.

John Marra, a business agent for Detroit Bartenders Union Local 562, was elected Tuesday to the Sobriety House board of directors.

"I'm a drinking man," Marra said. "We're not drunks. We want to help these people who for one reason or another can't handle liquor. I expect a lot of people in our industry will want to help."

Sobriety House is a non-denominational facility to provide a home-like haven for the homeless alcoholic, who has lost money, friends, food, shelter, and often cannot support himself. The alcoholics who seek shelter are fed, given a clean bed and respectable, donated clothing. Medical treatment is arranged if needed, and they are encouraged to join Alcoholics Anonymous.

The facility has accommodations for 15 men.

A spokesman for the two-year-old home said "about 400 men have been helped. We know that 200 of them have not had a drink since, have gone back to their homes and families, and returned to work."

No religious officials took part in the welcome. The Soviet foreign minister was received by four lay officials, headed by Marquis Giulio Sacchetti.

The audience was held in the Pope's private library. The pontiff met Gromyko at the doorway and they shook hands. Present at the audience were Amleto Cardinal Cicognani, the Vatican secretary of state, and the Rt. Rev. Josef Oslr, rector of the Pontifical Russian college in Rome, who was the interpreter.

By handing down one of its rare merger vetoes in an age of continuing rail consolidation, the ICC turned aside the bid of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy to merge, taking over two smaller railroads, into a 25,000-mile system stretching from Chicago to the West Coast.

Over a barrage of dissents, charging the majority with abdicating its duty under national transportation policy, the ICC ruled that the drastic loss of competition and harmful effects to employees in a Northern lines' merger far outweigh the

LBj Adviser Says No Tax Hike Planned

CHICAGO (AP) — President Johnson's chief economic adviser ruled out today any immediate tax increase to arrest inflationary pressures.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said the administration feels that restraints imposed on the economy last winter, coupled with the cooperation of industry and labor, will be an adequate hedge.

His talk to the annual convention of the Supermarket Institute added new assurance that a tax increase is not now part of any administration anti-inflation program.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told a meeting of The Associated Press in New York Monday that he would bet against an anti-inflationary tax increase now.

Ackley urged full cooperation of the food industry in controlling food prices which during March averaged 6.5 per cent above a year earlier.

Tornadoes Strike Across Mississippi By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes, spawned from torrential thunderstorms, dipped and darted across Mississippi during the night. At least one fatality was reported from a twister which struck in a rural area 40 miles southwest of Jackson, Miss.

The union agent, who spent 20 years as a bartender, said, "Bartenders are sympathetic. They are among the first to recognize the symptoms of the alcoholic."

"Bartenders have seen top executives — and other bartenders, for that matter — drink themselves out of jobs. Drinking can be fun and offers relaxation if it is handled right. However, alcoholics can't handle even a single drink. They often need help and we want to help them," Marra said.

European Split Seen Possible

Acheson Deplores New French Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Acheson warned Congress today of a heightened Soviet hazard to the West if French nationalism splits Western Europe into "a number of small to medium sized and weak states."

In testimony prepared for the opening of Senate hearings on problems of the Atlantic alliance, the former secretary of state endorsed the "empty chair" policy in dealing with President Charles de Gaulle's assault on NATO.

"We should do nothing on our part to prolong France's absence," Acheson said.

"We should keep her place ready and work for her return."

But he noted tartly that "the recent development of French policy has not drawn a picture of France as a dependable or an effective ally." He suggested that a weakened Western coalition might tempt Russia into new probings of the West's resolution.

Acheson helped draft the North Atlantic treaty and signed it in 1949 for the United States. As lead-off witness at the series of public hearings of the Senate National Security subcommittee, he was called "Mr. NATO" by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman.

The 73-year-old statesman said Russia's ambition to dominate Europe has never lessened but "it takes two to tangle and they have not wanted to tangle with NATO."

"Germany is still divided; Berlin remains an island . . . it is clear that the Russians do not accept the notion that military technology has reached a plateau and that the present military balance is fixed for the future," he said.

MIG Fields Are Risked

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Viet Nam may be risking its key military air fields in the Hanoi-Haiphong area by sending its MIG jets to duel with U.S. raiders.

So far the United States has refrained from hitting three air bases which are home to about 75 North Vietnamese MIG jet fighters and IL28 bombers.

The U.S. Air Force has wanted to strike at these bases and the planes on them.

But decision-making officials have been reluctant to approve any such operation until and unless the Communist jets become troublesome.

A rash of dogfights since late last week suggest that point may be approaching, although U.S. officials are not yet certain whether the pattern will continue. They are watching to see if the Communist jets come up again.

High military authorities have said they are confident that the MIG fields can be taken out by U.S. bombers over a short period of assault.

This could be a job for B52 bombers which so far have not been committed in North Viet Nam except for a single massive raid aimed at blocking an important pass.

The jet fields fall clearly in the realm of military targets.

Officials are convinced there was nothing accidental about the MIG sorties in the vicinity of U.S. raiding planes over the past several days.

"They're coming out," said one officer.

But there is only speculation as to why the North Vietnamese would choose to risk their few warplanes, especially MIG21s.

North Viet Nam has only 10 to 15 MIG21s, fastest and best in its air force. One was shot down Tuesday by a U.S. Air Force F4C Phantom which killed the MIG with a heat seeking Sidewinder missile.

Big B52s Pound Mountain Pass Supply Route

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52s pounded North Viet Nam for the second time in the war today, again attacking the Mu Gia Pass on the supply route to the south.

In their first raid on the Communist north 15 days ago, the Strategic Air Command's eight-engine planes dropped 700 tons of bombs which set off landslides that reportedly closed the pass. Rent Subsidy Backers Stung by Panel Rebuff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces plan an all-out push on the Senate floor today to restore funds for a controversial rent subsidy program.

Democratic leaders were stung by a surprise 15-12 appropriations committee vote Monday to eliminate the $12 million rent allotment from a supplemental money bill. They worked feverishly in advance of the floor showdown to nail down the needed votes.

As approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee, the bill contains $2.8 billion in dozens of allotments to tide various government agencies over for the rest of the fiscal year ending June 30.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he hopes action on the bill could be completed today.

Johnson sought the $30 million authorized by the 1965 housing bill and some big city senators wanted to try to restore the entire $30 million today. But it appeared likely administration strategy would be to settle for the House figure of $12 million.

The proposal was submitted Tuesday night by Asst. Atty. Gen. John P. Doar to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, the Deep South's highest federal tribunal and the last stop for Southern civil rights litigation before it reaches the U.S. Supreme Court.

The desegregation plan written by Doar — the department's top man on racial matters — generally follows the new and tougher guidelines which the U.S. Office of Education has set as a criteria for school districts to receive federal aid.

It calls for total desegregation of all grades by the fall of 1967 under the "freedom of choice" plan.

Many school boards in the South which voluntarily desegregated have been claiming foul over the new Office of Education rule for compliance with the Civil Rights Act.

which usually mark papal audiences were kept to a minimum. The Swiss Guards in their medieval red and yellow uniforms were absent from San Damascus courtyard where visitors to the Pope usually are greeted.

No religious officials took part in the welcome. The Soviet foreign minister was received by four lay officials, headed by Marquis Giulio Sacchetti.

The audience was held in the Pope's private library. The pontiff met Gromyko at the doorway and they shook hands. Present at the audience were Amleto Cardinal Cicognani, the Vatican secretary of state, and the Rt. Rev. Josef Oslr, rector of the Pontifical Russian college in Rome, who was the interpreter.

Wolford was returning from a vacation in Florida on a cold, rainy night in early March... He was flagged down by Mrs. Lila Collins...

Mrs. Collins had had a blow-out... It was late at night... Her husband who was in the car was an invalid and she and her daughter did not know how to change a tire...

It took the Georgia native quite a while to muster the courage to flag a passing car... fortunately, the first vehicle she hailed was Wolford's...

He changed the tire and made sure Mrs. Collins was safely on her way... She apparently told the sheriff of Lowndes County of the incident...

Sheriff Jewel Futch appointed the local deputy a special officer and extended an invitation for him to stop in the next time he passed through Georgia so "we can roll out the red carpet of true southern hospitality."

Mrs. Collins also sent a letter to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, telling of the incident... "I shall always be grateful to those men who helped me in a time of need... May God always bless them," she added.

ICC Rejects Western Deal

New Haven Line Given New Life

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission unanimously approved today the merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads—the biggest merger in U.S. history.

But it rejected by a hairline 6-5 vote another merger plan that would have created the nation's longest railroad.

The ICC, ordered the new Eastern rail giant to take over all operations — passenger and freight—of the bankrupt New Haven Railroad.

The decision was made April 6 but not disclosed until today.

By handing down one of its rare merger vetoes in an age of continuing rail consolidation, the ICC turned aside the bid of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy to merge, taking over two smaller railroads, into a 25,000-mile system stretching from Chicago to the West Coast.

Over a barrage of dissents, charging the majority with abdicating its duty under national transportation policy, the ICC ruled that the drastic loss of competition and harmful effects to employees in a Northern lines' merger far outweigh the

CHICAGO (AP) — President Johnson's chief economic adviser ruled out today any immediate tax increase to arrest inflationary pressures.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said the administration feels that restraints imposed on the economy last winter, coupled with the cooperation of industry and labor, will be an adequate hedge.

His talk to the annual convention of the Supermarket Institute added new assurance that a tax increase is not now part of any administration antinflation program.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told a meeting of The Associated Press in New York Monday that he would bet against an anti-inflationary tax increase now.

Ackley urged full cooperation of the food industry in controlling food prices which during March averaged 6.5 per cent above a year earlier.

Bartenders Aid Drunks

DETROIT (AP) — The men who pour the drinks are going to try to help the men who can't handle them.

John Marra, a business agent for Detroit Bartenders Union Local 562, was elected Tuesday to the Sobriety House board of directors.

"I'm a drinking man," Marra said. "We're not drunks. We want to help these people who for one reason or another can't handle liquor. I expect a lot of people in our industry will want to help."

Sobriety House is a non-denominational facility to provide a home-like haven for the homeless alcoholic, who has lost money, friends, food, shelter, and often cannot support himself. The alcoholics who seek shelter are fed, given a clean bed and respectable, donated clothing. Medical treatment is arranged if needed, and they are encouraged to join Alcoholics Anonymous.

The facility has accommodations for 15 men.

A spokesman for the two-year-old home said "about 400 men have been helped. We know that 200 of them have not had a drink since, have gone back to their homes and families, and returned to work."

The facility is supported by donations and fund-raising activities.

The union agent, who spent 20 years as a bartender, said, "Bartenders are sympathetic. They are among the first to recognize the symptoms of the alcoholic."

"Bartenders have seen top executives — and other bartenders, for that matter — drink themselves out of jobs. Drinking can be fun and offers relaxation if it is handled right. However, alcoholics can't handle even a single drink. They often need help, and we want to help them," Marra said.

European Split Seen Possible

Acheson Deplores New French Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Acheson warned Congress today of a heightened Soviet hazard to the West if French nationalism splits Western Europe into "a number of small to medium sized and weak states."

In testimony prepared for the opening of Senate hearings on problems of the Atlantic alliance, the former secretary of state endorsed the "empty chair" policy in dealing with President Charles de Gaulle's assault on NATO.

"We should do nothing on our part to prolong France's absence," Acheson said.

"We should keep her place ready and work for her return."

But he noted tartly that "the recent development of French policy has not drawn a picture of France as a dependable or an effective ally." He suggested that a weakened Western coalition might tempt Russia into new prying of the West's resolution.

Acheson helped draft the North Atlantic treaty and signed it in 1949 for the United States. As lead-off witness at the series of public hearings of the Senate National Security subcommittee, he was called "Mr. NATO" by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman.

The 73-year-old statesman said Russia's ambition to dominate Europe has never lessened but "it takes two to tangle and they have not wanted to tangle with NATO."

"Germany is still divided; Berlin remains an island... it is clear that the Russians do not accept the notion that military technology has reached a plateau and that the present military balance is fixed for the future," he said.

MIG Fields Are Risked

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Viet Nam may be risking its key military air fields in the Hanoi-Haiphong area by sending its MIG jets to duel with U.S. raiders.

So far the United States has refrained from hitting three air bases which are home to about 75 North Vietnamese MIG jet fighters and IL28 bombers.

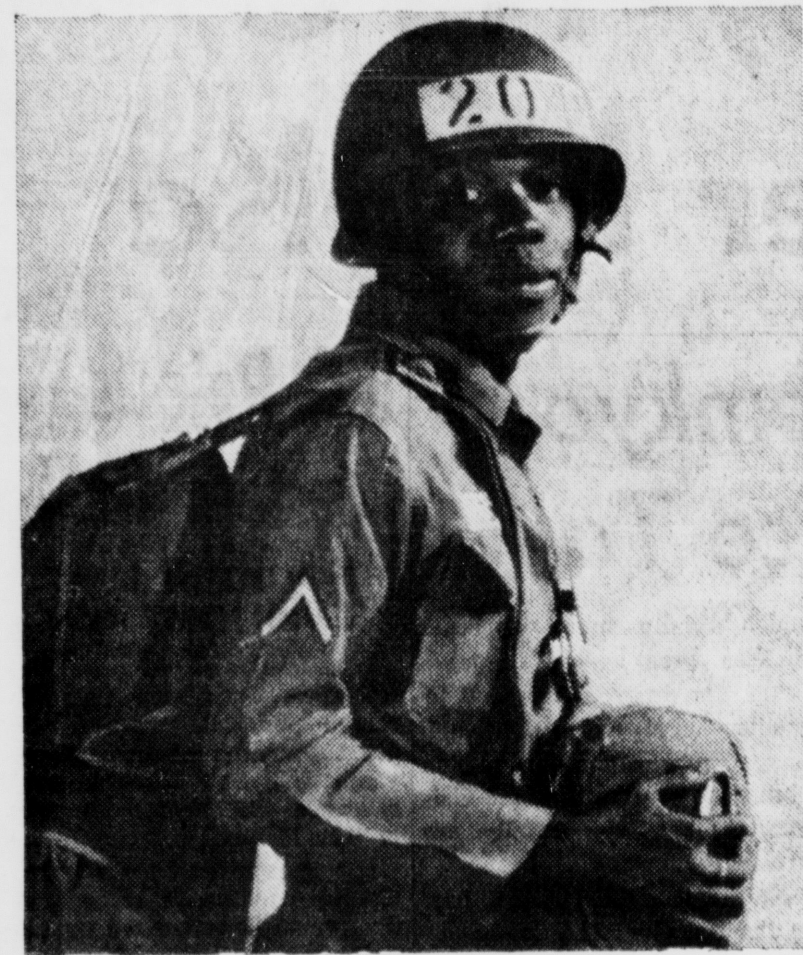

The U.S. Air Force has wanted to strike at these bases and the planes on them.

But decision-making officials have been reluctant to approve any such operation until and unless the Communist jets become a troublemaker.

SGT. FRANKLIN SMITH

Sgt. Franklin W. Smith, husband of Geraldine Dade Smith of Circleville, has been awarded the Bronze Star for heroism against a hostile force in Viet Nam.

Sgt. Smith, 23, is serving with the 101st Airborne Division's Co. A, 1st Battalion, 1st Brigade, Mrs. Smith is living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Dade of 216 E. Mill St., while her husband is in Viet Nam.

A native of Columbus, Sgt. Smith was decorated for his heroic performance of duty against the Viet Cong on Oct. 28, 1965, in a search and clear operation near An Hoa. His family was notified Tuesday concerning the citation.

The Bronze Star medal, with "V" device, was awarded under the authority of President Johnson and the Department of the Army.

AN OFFICIAL letter describing the local soldier's gallantry near An Hoa termed his action an outstanding display of aggressiveness, devotion to duty and personal bravery — all in keeping with highest standards of the military. It further stated that performance reflected great credit upon Sgt. Smith, his unit and the U. S. Army.

In detailing the paratrooper's action, the letter noted that Sgt. Smith's company had moved abreast of an unforgiving stream. A burst of intense enemy small arms fire prevented the unit from crossing the body of water without the use of a rope bridge.

Sgt. Smith then volunteered to swim to the opposite bank with a lead rope. As he entered financial advantages of such a consolidation.

There was no immediate comment from the lines involved pending study of the ICC order.

The Penn-Central merger — which may take effect in the first week of June — will create a system of some 20,000 rail miles, extending from Montreal and Norfolk, Va., west in an hourglass pattern to Chicago and St. Louis. The corporate giant will have combined assets exceeding $5.3 billion.

The new system, the ICC said in a report by Commissioner Kenneth H. Tuggle, will be in a better position to compete with the East's two other great rail systems—the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Norfolk & Western. Those two lines are currently seeking to merge.

With improved financial returns and greater efficiency resulting from the merger, the ICC said the system "will be able to attract investment capital, maintain and improve service, regain diverted traffic and avoid further loss of traffic to other carriers."

"There is no question but that the transaction will permit more economical and efficient use of the applicants' transportation facilities," the ICC said.

Reaping an estimated annual savings of $80 million after eight years, the ICC said, the Penn-Central—formerly the Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Co.—will be a boon to shippers and the general public alike.

The commission diverged from the March 1965 recommendation of its examiners by ordering Penn-Central to take over passenger as well as freight operations of the faltering New Haven. Examiners had recommended only a freight takeover.

The Penn-Central case has been before the commission since March 9, 1962; the Great Northern case since Feb. 17, 1961.

Partial Artificial Heart May Be Used Again Soon

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A modified version of the partial artificial pump that kept Marcel DeRudder alive nearly five days may be used on another patient within several weeks.

DeRudder, 65, died Tuesday of a ruptured left lung, the last of several complications that developed after he became the first patient to make use of the new device designed to give damaged hearts a rest so they can heal themselves.

Dr. Michael DeBaakey, the noted surgeon who performed the six-hour operation last Thursday, said the lung rupture was a complication "over which we had no control."

"We don't know what caused the rupture," he said after DeRudder's sudden and unexpected death.

"The pump did what we thought it would do. We would hope to use it in all cases of this type."

Asked when the device might be used again, he replied: "I can't tell. Probably in several weeks."

He indicated modifications being planned will not change the basic design of the device.

DeRudder never regained consciousness, but DeBaakey said that, prior to the lung rupture, there had been signs this the stream, a heavy volume of fire was directed at him.

According to the information submitted the money will be used for land acquisition, roads, parking lot and boating ramps. The facilities mentioned are to be under construction this fall and completed by the 1967 season.

The Army communication noted that with complete disregard for his own safety, Sgt. Smith dove into the water and started for the opposite side. The enemy fire was still intense.

On reaching the opposite bank, Sgt. Smith secured his lead rope to a tree. He then laid down an accurate base of fire upon the enemy position to divert the Viet Cong's attention.

His return fire allowed the rest of his platoon to cross the stream. The entire company then crossed without any casualties.

Partial Artificial Heart May Be Used Again Soon

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A modified version of the partial artificial pump that kept Marcel DeRudder alive nearly five days may be used on another patient within several weeks.

DeRudder, 65, died Tuesday of a ruptured left lung, the last of several complications that developed after he became the first patient to make use of the new device designed to give damaged hearts a rest so they can heal themselves.

Dr. Michael DeBakey, the noted surgeon who performed the six-hour operation last Thursday, said the lung rupture was a complication "over which we had no control."

"We don't know what caused the rupture," he said after DeRudder's sudden and unexpected death.

"The pump did what we thought it would do. We would hope to use it in all cases of this type."

Asked when the device might be used again, he replied: "I can't tell. Probably in several weeks."

He indicated modifications being planned will not change the basic design of the device. DeRudder never regained consciousness, but DeBakey said that, prior to the lung rupture, there had been signs this and other complications would have been overcome.

"But that's speculation," he added.

At the time of death, DeRudder also was receiving treatment for a kidney malfunction and for lung congestion. The autopsy report attributed the prolonged unconsciousness to a blood clot in a major artery in the brain. It said a considerable amount of this grained clot had been found during the operation in the left auricle, the heart chamber that receives blood from veins.

"The autopsy revealed no evidence of any recurrence of this clot formation in the left auricle," the report said.

The artificial heart pump, the report said, was working normally up to the moment of death.

Funds Listed For Use at Marion Park

Specific uses for funds earmarked for improvements at A. W. Marion State Park and Hargus Lake have been announced by Richard Midden of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources' program and planning section.

In a communication requested by Myrl Shoemaker, candidate for the Pickaway-Ross County Representative post, Midden noted that $110,000 has been appropriated for A. W. Marion State Park.

According to the information submitted the money will be used for land acquisition, roads, parking lot and boating ramps. The facilities mentioned are to be under construction this fall and completed by the 1967 season.

Shoemaker pointed out that the $110,000 had been appropriated earlier. He said his request to Midden was to determine if the money is still available.

Sheriff Orders Enforcement of No Talking Rule

A crackdown on enforcement of a regulation forbidding persons to talk to prisoners at the Pickaway County Jail has been ordered by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

The sheriff noted that several times recently, persons outside the jail have been caught conversing with prisoners through the windows.

The sheriff filed a delinquency charge Monday against a 17-year-old Franklin County juvenile who violated the regulation.

Adults caught talking through the windows to prisoners will be charged with contempt of court Radcliff said.

Altitude Problem

Those who voted to hold the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City must have blushed when they heard that some of the Secret Service agents trotting in relays behind President Johnson's car on April 14 had to drop back to get whiffs of oxygen.

Mexico City's altitude is far more than 5,000 feet. Many experts were worried lest it do damage to many of the young athletes who will be participating in the 1968 games. In particular, the fate of long-distance runners has been cause for much conjecture.

President Johnson's Secret Service guards are mostly younger men who must pass rigid physical tests. While they certainly aren't in the shape most young athletes will be in come Olympics' time, they ordinarily do not find it at all difficult to run for miles behind the President's slow-moving car.

So it must be Mexico City's sky-high altitude that's to blame for their embarrassment. Such being the case, many well-trained athletes from low-altitude places are going to find it difficult to live up to their press clippings when they perform their specialties at the 1968 Olympics. Many persons will be saying, "I told you so."

War that Isn't a War

The way to get a good line on fighting in Vietnam is to try to imagine what the late Bernard Baruch would have had to say about it. He could only have expressed wild surprise. To Baruch, war meant industrial mobilization. It meant the conversion of factories — and allocation of men and materials to the production of mountains of military hardware. It meant piling board on board in Washington, to the end of controlling prices and wages by force and discouraging the normal propensity for fun and games.

But this war is different. In Detroit, they are still making millions of cars — and even calling in old models for reconditioning that will improve their safety factors. Chrysler is preoccupied with the Dodge rebellion, not with the production of tanks. Nobody is ripping up the prairie to create new Willow Run. The production of missiles and atomic armament goes on, but atomic explosives are for the stockpile, not for the current war — and, accordingly, there is no industrial "escalation" here. The shipyard stocks perform in narrow ranges, there is no Victory ship program to engage the ingenuities of a latter day Henry Kaiser, and nobody is talking about turning out landing craft. True enough, the helicopter plants are busy, and plywood factories have been making boards for G.I. foot lockers and ammunition boxes instead of material for new civilian housing starts. But, taking things on balance, it is very definitely not Bernard Baruch's type of war emergency.

It is for this reason that the Johnson Administration is more than a little perplexed about establishing a wartime economic policy. The war costs money, but it is money that is, almost literally, swallowed up by the Southeast Asian jungles. It goes to pay South Vietnam's bills, and the maintenance of G.I.s 8,000 miles away from the U.S. economic scene. There is considerable attrition of old-fashioned military hardware, but Secretary of Defense McNamara doesn't issue to her orders for a replacement of old-fashioned bomber and fighter planes. He is living off the military "nut" of yesteryear, meanwhile paying the increased expenses of the men who use the old equipment.

The big question is: how do you control the inflation called forth by such a war without sowing the seeds for a depression that will hit sometime before the next presidential election?

The production of the car makers of Detroit can't be cut back, for it is the taxes on Buicks and Fords that are paying the bills for transporting and maintaining our forces overseas. And if people are to buy the cars that produce the taxes, they must be left with some cash or some access to credit. By this token they must have civilian jobs producing for a civilian economy. So how do you improve things by slapping on taxes that will discourage the civilian economy, which is the only economy we happen to have in this strange war that requires no factory conversion for military ends?

The driving force of a civilian economy is investment in capital goods. For it is capital construction that soaks up surplus labor and provides it with the cash and credit to buy the food and build the homes that spell the difference between profit and loss in the economy as a whole. American business in recent years has found a way of leveling out the peaks and valleys of capital construction. But, in the interests of fighting inflation, Washington is trying to discourage business men from making new investments. The trick can undoubtedly be worked — but only at the expense of running down the plant and destroying the comparative efficiency of the civilian economy. Herein lies danger, for as long as the Vietnamese war is mainly a guerrilla type operation and not a prime consumer of heavy goods, the civilian economy must remain the only economy we have. The effort to choke off inflation by choking off investment in this economy will have its delayed effect.

This is a war that requires no national effort. It is therefore a war without enthusiasm — and nobody knows how to conjure patriotism out of that.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—The battle for trade has turned in the United States' favor for the first time this year but the war is far from won.

At stake in the struggle to boost exports still higher above imports are such things as the good name of the American dollar, the supplying of sufficient funds to lubricate world trade in general, and even the degree of inflation on the home front.

In January and February, imports were zooming ahead faster than exports were gaining.

Now the Commerce Department has good news—even if it proves to be only a temporary respite.

In March this country exported 9 per cent more dollar volume of goods and services than in February. Imports also rose over the previous month, but only by 4 per cent.

At a seasonally adjusted $2,594,400,000, exports topped imports by $21.7 million.

But that is just about as far as the department's good news goes.

The gap between exports and imports will have to be much more than that, if the drain of dollars overseas is to be staunch. That is because the U.S. favorable balance of trade for several years now has been too small to offset all the other forms of dollar outflow. These include foreign aid, tourist spending, U.S. military outlays abroad, and private investment in foreign securities, loans and business expansion.

Results of this long-standing deficit in the total balance of payments have been loss of U.S. gold reserves as other nations turn in their surplus dollars for the metal; occasional—but so far unsuccessful—runs on the U.S. dollar in world money markets; and the steady buildup of gold and dollar reserves in many of the leading industrial countries, while U.S. reserves have dwindled.

The U.S. government has been relying on many programs to combat the deficit. It has urged business firms to hold down their spending overseas for new plants, banks to curb loans to foreign enterprises, tourists to see America first, and above all for U.S. business to boost exports.

The export gain in March is heartening. But it falls far short of government goals.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

Is ether used for the removal of tonsils? Are there still such unpleasant after-effects from this anesthesia?

Ether remains as one of the safest and most effective anesthetics for tonsils and other type of surgery. Unfortunately the unpleasant after-effects of ether are so great that new anesthetics were sought to replace it.

At the present time a remarkable inhalation anesthetic, halothane, is being used extensively for tonsil operations. It, too, is exceedingly safe. The recovery period is short and the post-operative discomfort and nausea, so frequent with ether, are markedly reduced.

It is possible for a bone in the arm or leg to break without any injury?

A fracture of a long bone can occur without injury. Fortunately, it is relatively rare.

There are some general medical conditions in which the bones lose their calcium or become brittle. Injuries that may be so slight a not to be remembered may cause a fracture.

A bone cyst, a tumor, both benign and malignant, may be responsible for fractures without injury. These fractures are called pathological fractures to distinguish them from those caused by injury.

Can a deficiency of iron cause anemia?

It can and does especially in women. It is believed that many women lose a relatively large amount of iron during their menstrual periods.

Before a diagnosis of anemia is made, microscopic study of the blood is necessary. If an iron deficiency anemia is found it almost always can be readily corrected by taking simple, inexpensive iron preparations by mouth.

What is meant by "goiter belt"?

There are some geographical areas in the United States, Switzerland and in other countries where enlargement of the thyroid gland seems to occur with great frequency. These areas are almost all inland where the water supply does not contain enough iodine.

The inadequate amount of iodine in the drinking water is responsible for the characteristic swelling of the thyroid gland (goiter) in the neck.

This is happening less frequently today because people living in these areas are supplementing their diets and water with additional quantities of iodine.

Try Stay-at-Home Vacation

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is deciding on where to spend your vacation.

Why not be different this year and have a really carefree stay-at-home holiday?

Ideally, a vacation should provide a restful change from the ordinary and enable one to recharge his depleted energy batteries.

Where else can this be done better than at home?

Travel is supposed to be broadening, but what is more broadening than lying in a hammock in your own back yard for two weeks reading light fiction, dozing, swatting flies, and filling up on watermelon, fried chicken and ice cream?

If your wife complains that this program doesn't do much for her, tell her you'll listen to her for an hour a day. That's a good bargain. Any wife would rather stay home and talk to her husband—if he really listened—than ride around Bermuda peering at nasty things in the seas through a glass-bottom boat.

Perhaps a summer hibernation in your back yard hammock isn't active enough for you. Well, if you're the up-and-going type, there are plenty of interesting things to do in your own community.

A few suggestions:
Get a selected group of friends, pass out alpenstocks, then take a guided tour of the nearest supermarket. The average American supermarket is full of more exotic wonders than the Taj Mahal. To pep up interest, you might give a prize to the member of your group who finds the shortest path from the canned dog food section to the chuck roast weekend special.

Plan a trip to your local gas works. The manager will be thrilled to show you how his plant operates. He may even be so pleased at your interest that he will send a guy out to fix the two clogged jets on the back burner of your own gas stove.

Visit all the Civil War monuments in your own and nearby communities. There are few living authorities on Civil War monument prose. You can become one on your vacation.

Perhaps you feel that you should do something even more constructive. Well, you can always fight chinch bugs and termites or build a bird house.

Building a bird house is simple. The main thing to remember is to bore the entrance hole large enough for a wren but too small to admit a vulture. Real estate values sag in neighborhoods where vultures perch.

No, it's hard to beat the advantages of vacationing right in your own backyard. Nobody tries to rob you blind by jacking up prices. You don't get "museum feet." You don't have to ask directions from the natives in pidgin English. You don't have to strain your mind trying to be clever on post cards. You don't have to buy souvenirs for relatives and friends.

Yes, and think of the money you save!

You can spend this, of course, on medical treatments to cure the sprained back you get from falling out of the hammock.

In almost 25 nominations in news and documentary programming and achievement, ABC and CBS each received 11 nominations, and ABC two. CBS News, however, pulled out of the Emmy competition two seasons ago when Fred W. Friendly, then CBS president, said he was unhappy about the qualifications of those choosing the winners.

Blue ribbon panels, whose identities are not made public, will view the nominated programs and vote to select winners of the awards, which will be announced and presented on May 22 in a CBS special program.

Altitude Problem

Those who voted to hold the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City must have blushed when they heard that some of the Secret Service agents trotting in relays behind President Johnson's car on April 14 had to drop back to get whiffs of oxygen.

Mexico City's altitude is far more than 5,000 feet. Many experts were worried lest it do damage to many of the young athletes who will be participating in the 1968 games. In particular, the fate of long-distance runners has been cause for much conjecture.

President Johnson's Secret Service guards are mostly younger men who must pass rigid physical tests. While they certainly aren't in the shape most young athletes will be in come Olympics' time, they ordinarily do not find it at all difficult to run for miles behind the President's slow-moving car.

So it must be Mexico City's sky-high altitude that's to blame for their embarrassment. Such being the case, many well-trained athletes from low-altitude places are going to find it difficult to live up to their press clippings when they perform their specialties at the 1968 Olympics. Many persons will be saying, "I told you so."

War that Isn't a War

By John Chamberlain

The way to get a good line on fighting in Vietnam is to try to imagine what the late Bernard Baruch would have had to say about it. He could only have expressed wild surprise. To Baruch, war meant industrial mobilization. It meant the conversion of factories — and allocation of men and materials to the production of mountains of military hardware. It meant piling board on board in Washington, to the end of controlling prices and wages by force and discouraging the normal propensity for fun and games.

But this war is different. In Detroit, they are still making millions of cars — and even calling in old models for reconditioning that will improve their safety factors. Chrysler is preoccupied with the Dodge rebellion, not with the production of tanks. Nobody is ripping up the prairie to create new Willow Run. The production of missiles and atomic armament goes on, but atomic explosives are for the stockpile, not for the current war — and, accordingly, there is no industrial "escalation" here. The shipyard stocks perform in narrow ranges, there is no Victory ship program to engage the ingenuities of a latter day Henry Kaiser, and nobody is talking about turning out landing craft. True enough, the helicopter plants are busy, and plywood factories have been making boards for G.I. foot lockers and ammunition boxes instead of material for new civilian houses.

ing starts. But, taking things on balance, it is very definitely not Bernard Baruch's type of war emergency. It is for this reason that the Johnson Administration is more than a little perplexed about establishing a wartime economic policy. The war costs money, but it is money that is, almost literally, swallowed up by the Southeast Asian jungles. It goes to pay South Vietnam's bills, and the maintenance of G.I.s 8,000 miles away from the U.S. economic scene. There is considerable attrition of old-fashioned military hardware, but Secretary of Defense McNamara doesn't issue the orders for a replacement of old-fashioned bomber and fighter planes. He is living off the military "nut" of yesteryear, meanwhile paying the increased expenses of the men who use the old equipment.

The big question is: how do you control the inflation called forth by such a war without sowing the seeds for a depression that will hit sometime before the next presidential election?

The production of the car makers of Detroit can't be cut back, for it is the taxes on Buicks and Fords that are paying the bills for transporting and maintaining our forces overseas. And if people are to buy the cars that produce the taxes, they must be left with some cash or some access to credit. By this token they must have civilian jobs producing for a civilian economy. So how do you improve things by slapping on taxes that will discourage the civilian economy, which is the only economy we happen to have in this strange war that requires no factory conversion for military ends?

The driving force of a civilian economy is investment in capital goods. For it is capital construction that soaks up surplus labor and provides it with the cash and credit to buy the food and build the homes that spell the difference between profit and loss in the economy as a whole. American business in recent years has found a way of leveling out the peaks and valleys of capital construction. But, in the interests of fighting inflation, Washington is trying to discourage business men from making new investments. The trick can undoubtedly be worked — but only at the expense of running down the plant and destroying the comparative efficiency of the civilian economy. Herein lies danger, for as long as the Vietnamese war is mainly a guerrilla type operation and not a prime consumer of heavy goods, the civilian economy must remain the only economy we have. The effort to choke off inflation by choking off investment in this economy will have its delayed effect.

This is a war that requires no national effort. It is therefore a war without enthusiasm — and nobody knows how to conjure patriotism out of that.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—The battle for trade has turned in the United States' favor for the first time this year but the war is far from won.

At stake in the struggle to boost exports still higher above imports are such things as the good name of the American dollar, the supplying of sufficient funds to lubricate world trade in general, and even the degree of inflation on the home front.

In January and February, imports were zooming ahead faster than exports were gaining.

Now the Commerce Department

ment has good news—even if it proves to be only a temporary respite.

In March this country exported 9 per cent more dollar volume of goods and services than in February. Imports also rose over the previous month, but only by 4 per cent.

At a seasonally adjusted $2,594,400,000, exports topped imports by $521.7 million.

But that is just about as far as the department's good news goes.

The gap between exports and imports will have to be much more than that, if the drain of dollars overseas is to be staunch. That is because the U.S. favorable balance of trade for several years now has been too small to offset all the other forms of dollar outflow. These include foreign aid, tourist spending, U.S. military outlays abroad, and private investment in foreign securities, loans and business expansion.

Results of this long-standing deficit in the total balance of payments have been loss of U.S. gold reserves as other nations turn in their surplus dollars for the metal; occasional—but so far unsuccessful—runs on the U.S. dollar in world money markets; and the steady buildup of gold and dollar reserves in many of the leading industrial countries, while U.S. reserves have dwindled.

The U.S. government has been relying on many programs to combat the deficit. It has urged business firms to hold down their spending overseas for new plants, banks to curb loans to foreign enterprises, tourists to see America first, and above all for U.S. business to boost exports.

The export gain in March is heartening. But it falls far short of government goals.

BOB LANDRY, crack photographer for a news magazine, was assigned to make a series of action shots aboard the U.S. Carrier "Enterprise." The first "swindle sheet" (expense account) included a goodly sum for taxicab fares. His chief cabled, "How can you justify taxi expenses on your current assignment?" Landry cabled back, "Enterprise is a damn big carrier!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LEWIS L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Is ether used for the removal of tonsils? Are there still such unpleasant after-effects from this anesthesia?

Ether remains as one of the safest and most effective anesthetics for tonsils and other type of surgery. Unfortunately the unpleasant after-effects of ether are so great that new anesthetics were sought to replace it.

At the present time a remarkable inhalation anesthetic, halothane, is being used extensively for tonsil operations. It, too, is exceedingly safe. The recovery period is short and the post-operative discomfort and nausea, so frequent with ether, are markedly reduced.

It is possible for a bone in the arm or leg to break without any injury?

A fracture of a long bone can occur without injury. Fortunately, it is relatively rare.

There are some general medical conditions in which the bones lose their calcium or become brittle. Injuries that may be so slight as to be remembered may cause a fracture.

A bone cyst, a tumor, both benign and malignant, may be responsible for fractures without injury. These fractures are called pathological fractures to distinguish them from those caused by injury.

Can a deficiency of iron cause anemia?

It can and does especially in women. It is believed that many women lose a relatively large amount of iron during their menstrual periods.

Before a diagnosis of anemia is made, microscopic study of the blood is necessary. If an iron deficiency anemia is found it almost always can be readily corrected by taking simple, inexpensive iron preparations by mouth.

What is meant by "goiter belt"?

There are some geographical areas in the United States, Switzerland and in other countries where enlargement of the thyroid gland seems to occur with great frequency. These areas are almost all inland where the water supply does not contain enough iodine.

The inadequate amount of iodine in the drinking water is responsible for the characteristic swelling of the thyroid gland (goiter) in the neck.

This is happening less frequently today because people living in these areas are supplementing their diets and water with additional quantities of iodine.

If you cannot avoid riding a bicycle after dark, use lights and reflectors. Without them you're courting disaster.

Try Stay-at-Home Vacation

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is deciding on where to spend your vacation.

Why not be different this year and have a really carefree stay-at-home holiday?

Ideally, a vacation should provide a restful change from the ordinary and enable one to recharge his depleted energy batteries.

Where else can this be done better than at home?

Travel is supposed to be broadening, but what is more broadening than lying in a hammock in your own back yard for two weeks reading light fiction, dozing, swatting flies, and filling up on watermelon, fried chicken and ice cream?

If your wife complains that this program doesn't do much for her, tell her you'll listen to her for an hour a day. That's a good bargain. Any wife would rather stay home and talk to her husband—if he really listened—than ride around Bermuda peering at nasty things in the seas through a glass-bottom boat.

Perhaps a summer hibernation in your back yard hammock isn't active enough for you. Well, if you're the up-and-going type, there are plenty of interesting things to do in your own community.

A few suggestions:
Get a selected group of friends, pass out alpenstocks,

then take a guided tour of the nearest supermarket. The average American supermarket is full of more exotic wonders than the Taj Mahal. To pep up interest, you might give a prize to the member of your group who finds the shortest path from the canned dog food section to the chuck roast weekend special.

Plan a trip to your local gas works. The manager will be thrilled to show you how his plant operates. He may even be so pleased at your interest that he will send a guy out to fix the two clogged jets on the back burner of your own gas stove.

Visit all the Civil War monuments in your own and nearby communities. There are few living authorities on Civil War monument prose. You can become one on your vacation.

Perhaps you feel that you should do something even more constructive. Well, you can always fight chinch bugs and termites or build a bird house.

Building a bird house is simple. The main thing to remember is to bore the entrance hole large enough for a wren but too small to admit a vulture. Real estate values sag in neighborhoods where vultures perch.

No, it's hard to beat the advantages of vacationing right in your own backyard. Nobody tries to rob you blind by jacking up prices. You don't get "museum feet." You don't have to ask directions from the natives in pidgin English. You don't have to strain your mind trying to be clever on post cards. You don't have to buy souvenirs for relatives and friends.

Yes, and think of the money you save!

You can spend this, of course, on medical treatments to cure the sprained back you get from falling out of the hammock.

Dear Abby: Married Woman Repulsed by Sex

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for nearly 25 years, have six children and have lived a "lie" all my married life. I detest sex! I am sure if I had had sex relations before matrimony, I never would have married. My husband is a very fine person—considerate and not demanding—I do love him, but submitting to sex has always been degrading and disgusting to me. I am sure my husband has no idea how I feel. Don't suggest psychiatry. I don't want to change. I am convinced there must be other women like me, who were born with a nature that is repulsed by this kind of intimacy. Am I right?

LIVING A LIE

DEAR LIVING: Yes, there are other women like you, but they were not "born" with their attitudes about sex. They were developed during their childhood. Many women (and men) carry into marriage faulty ideas about sex that make it degrading and disgusting. Unfortunately you are such a victim. The physical side of marriage can be immensely rewarding and beautiful. Psychotherapy might help you—but only if you wanted to be helped.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 28-year-old, college educated man who takes a Ping-pong ball to bed with him every night and keeps bouncing it off the wall and catching it until he gets tired enough to fall asleep? That's my husband. He claims it "relieves tension." We have been married for two years, and he started this foolishness about six months ago. I have even considered leaving this nut!

PINGPONG PROBLEM

DEAR PING: Your husband is inconsiderate to "relieve" in a manner that adds to yours. Suggest that he tell his troubles to a doctor before you tell yours to a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: Re unwanted visitors in a hospital: When a patient has an unwanted visitor, if the patient will just close his eyes and pretend he has dropped off to sleep the visitor will quietly leave. I am a Gray Lady and I often tell this to patients who complain that company wears them out.

GRAY LADY

DEAR GRAY LADY: Take it from an old Gray Lady (either way); I can tell you never to underestimate the persistence of some visitors. Some have been known to sit for hours waiting for the patient to "wake up."

DEAR ABBY: SQUEAMISH

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Married Woman Repulsed by Sex

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for nearly 25 years, have six children and have lived a "lie" all my married life. I detest sex! I am sure if I had had sex relations before matrimony, I never would have married. My husband is a very fine person—considerate and not demanding—I do love him, but submitting to sex has always been degrading and disgusting to me. I am sure my husband has no idea how I feel. Don't suggest psychiatry. I don't want to change. I am convinced there must be other women like me, who were born with a nature that is repulsed by this kind of intimacy. Am I right?

LIVING A LIE

DEAR LIVING: Yes, there are other women like you, but they were not "born" with their attitudes about sex. They were developed during their childhood. Many women (and men) carry into marriage faulty ideas about sex that make it degrading and disgusting. Unfortunately you are such a victim. The physical side of marriage can be immensely rewarding and beautiful. Psychotherapy might help you—but only if you wanted to be helped.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 28-year-old, college educated man who takes a Ping-pong ball to bed with him every night and keeps bouncing it off the wall and catching it until he gets tired enough to fall asleep? That's my husband. He claims it "relieves tension." We have been married for two years, and he started this foolishness about six months ago. I have even considered leaving this nut!

PINGPONG PROBLEM

DEAR PING: Your husband is inconsiderate to "relieve" in a manner that adds to yours. Suggest that he tell his troubles to a doctor before you tell yours to a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: Re unwanted visitors in a hospital: When a patient has an unwanted visitor, if the patient will just close his eyes and pretend he has dropped off to sleep the visitor will quietly leave. I am a Gray Lady and I often tell this to patients who complain that company wears them out.

GRAY LADY

DEAR GRAY LADY: Take it from an old Gray Lady (either way): I can tell you never to underestimate the persistence of some visitors. Some have been known to sit for hours waiting for the patient to "wake up."

DEAR ABBY: SQUEAMISH

sure burned me up complaining because her own mother tasted the food with the same spoon she stirred it with! I was glad you put her in her place, Abby, and told her by this time she surely must have developed an immunity to her mother's "germs." I wonder if it ever occurred to "SQUEAMISH" that all mothers "taste" their small children's food first to see if it's too hot for them to eat? And I've yet to hear of the first baby dying of the disease called "MOTHER'S GERMS."

Thanks,
JERSEY CITY MOM

Ohio Booked For Talks on Arsenal Land

WASHINGTON (AP) — A meeting with Defense Department officials has been arranged for Thursday to discuss the proposed release of 3,000 acres from the Ravenna Arsenal in Portage County, Ohio, Rep. J. William Stanton, R-Ohio, and Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, announced Tuesday.

The defense Department agreed last week to release the 3,000 acres for industrial development, sought by Ohio officials, but said the release would be on condition that state or local bodies paid the approximate $6 million cost for transferring ammunition to an arsenal in Pennsylvania.

Stanton, whose congressional district includes the Ravenna Arsenal, and Lausche contended the removal cost should be borne by the Defense Department.

Thursday's meeting was arranged to see whether the $6 million cost could be negotiated.

In addition to Stanton and Lausche, those scheduled to attend the Pentagon meeting include Dr. Robert A. Brooks, assistant secretary of the Army; Fred Neuenschwander, director of the Ohio Development Department; Robert Schmidt, executive director of the Medina, Summit and Portage Counties Area Development Committee; and Robert Brown, Portage County commissioner.

PRACTICE SESSION — Elementary students of Circleville schools are seen here during a rehearsal Tuesday in the high school gymnasium in preparation for the second annual Music Festival set 7:30 p. m. Friday. The program will be presented under the direction of Paul Dunkle and Clifford Kerns.

Elementary Music Festival Scheduled Friday at CHS

The Circleville High School gymnasium will resound again this year with hundreds of voices of elementary music classes combining for their second spring concert at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

The concert, using the theme of "Sound of Music", is under the direction of Paul M. Dunkle and Clifford Kerns, elementary music teachers. It will be the second event of its kind to be held by city schools.

The program is the climax of the year's work in music classes of grades four, five, six and seven. The concert is a result of the combined efforts of administration and teachers of the elementary schools.

The concert will open with all voices joining for the theme song. The fourth and fifth graders (490 voices) will follow presenting the first half of the program. Dunkle has arranged the songs into five groups including songs of faith, fun songs and folk songs. Selections include, "Let Us Break Bread Together", "Michael, Row the Boat Ashore", "Feed the Birds", "Were You There", "He Shall Feed His Flock" and others.

FOLLOWING this the sixth grade choir (200 voices) will present groups of songs with a Mexican theme. This portion of the program is very unique in that the accompaniment is partially with the use of Spanish instruments including maracas, claves, bongo drums, and many more. Dances will also be demonstrated by the students. Numbers will include "In the Plaza", "Blue Spanish Eyes", "Bell Samba" and "Trail to Mexico."

The seventh grade ensemble, composed of 35 girls, will sing "God Bless America", "Wells Fargo Wagon", "Lemon Tree" and others.

The finale will be the combined choirs singing "This Is My Country". Accompanists will be Mrs. Louis Marcy, Donald Metzler and student accompanists are Sue Bennett, Donna Berry and Diana Berry.

'Fiddler on the Roof' Is Given Golden Future by Critics

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Harold Prince paced the floor of his Beverly Hills Hotel bungalow and spouted ideas, as a hard-driving, highly successful Broadway producer should.

Prince was here to launch the road company of his "Fiddler on the Roof," which began a sold-out seven weeks at the Music Center after a week in San Diego.

"We played in San Diego to audiences of gentiles, and they loved it," he remarked. The musical concerns village life of Russian Jews. "Too bad we can only play seven weeks here. It could go for seven months."

"The Shuberts swear that 'Fiddler' can go at least seven years in New York. Imagine! The show has all the aspects of a classic, and that's something new for me. Even with 'West Side Story' we didn't sell out for the first few weeks, and there was a question of whether it would go at all."

"They're after me now to put together another 'Fiddler' company to take care of the cities that this one can't make. I'm resisting. It's not an easy show to put together. But I'll probably give in."

"The said it was Zero Mostel's show and anybody would be crazy to follow him. But Luther Adler did, and he succeeded. Now Herschel Bernardi is playing it in New York, and he's fine. It's not any one star's show. It's a classic."

Prince, who produced "Damn

Yankee," "Pajama Game" and "Fiorello" among others, retains his boyish enthusiasm for the theater. That seems to be what it takes, since you can't succeed in the Broadway rat-race without really trying.

The trade knows that Prince tried hard with "It's a Bird... It's a Plane... It's a Superman," which opened recently to what is generally called mixed reviews. Despite the yawns of some critics, Prince says the show is a solid hit.

Other Prince Ideas:
A musical called "Cabaret" for next season, based on Christopher Isherwood's "I am a Camera" stories of 1930 Berlin. A move, "The Cook," all about eating, which Prince himself would direct.

Cincinnati Boy, 14, Is Accused of Murder

CORDIN, Ky. (AP) — James Petrey, Jr., 14, Cincinnati, has been charged with the fatal shooting of his 9-year-old cousin April 9 while the two were visiting their grandfather, Gus Alsip, near Corbin.

Petrey was arrested after Mike Muddiman, also of Cincinnati, died from a bullet wound in the head. Police said Petrey told them the youth had been quarreling.

Briton Reports 'Something Fishy' About Red China's Anti-U.S. Feeling

EDITOR'S NOTE — What chance is there for friendlier relations between the United States and Communist China? This uncensored dispatch, brought out of China by the British Novelist Frank Tuih, gives a hint in its disclosure of the way Americans are depicted there. Since U.S. reporters are not admitted to China, The Associated Press asked Tuih to report on his findings in this and in other articles to appear later.

By FRANK TUIH

PEKING (AP) — Signs of anti-American feeling are everywhere in China. Yet I feel there is something fishy about it all. If the Americans did not exist, the Central Committee of the Communist party would have to invent them.

Take the following scene, for example:

An old man is lying on the ground, and an officer with a stock-whip is flogging him. A young woman dashes forward to help, but is seized by two soldiers. The officer turns with a fiendish snarl and snatched her baby from her. The woman breaks free, but two more soldiers cross their rifles with fixed bayonets in front of her. The officer taunts her. Raising the child, he hurls it down on to the crossed bayonets. The woman shrieks. Grinning, the officer draws a revolver and shoots her on the spot.

The office is American, the mother and baby Vietnamese. This gruesome scene starts off the Chinese film "Victory is Just Ahead," which I saw in Canton. The American officer, called J. Watson, is played by a Chinese with a false nose.

Why do the Americans have to be presented like this? There are several reasons.

First, the Chinese believe that they have been especially marked out for American detestation since 1949. One of the "remolded capitalists" of Shanghai, used to turning on his opinions for foreigners, was quite definite about it: "The Americans have bullied us too much. We are determined to see this through. The Americans have always been dead against China. In 1950 they bombed plants in Shanghai and have made more than 400 intrusions."

Some Bowling Green Students Disciplined

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—A few students have been disciplined as a result of vandalism during outburst of Green State University last week.

Dean Walter Taylor said today that university officials have talked with about 30 students considered to have been "overly rambunctious" April 18, when about 300 students milled through the campus area.

Some damage was done to shrubs, screens and windows.

Why should we Chinese have aggressive designs on other countries when there is so much to be done here?

Further embellishments are added to this general picture every day. China's sudden loss of friends in Ghana and Indonesia is due to CIA plotting; all American moves for peace in Viet Nam are a hoax.

Secondly, in spite of diplomatic setbacks, China still wishes to appear the leader of revolutionary movements against imperialism and neocolonialism all over the world.

The breakdown of the relationship with Cuba is still a traumatic experience which has not been adjusted to.

Deprived of the Cubans, China looks elsewhere for oppressed peoples to lead. Flagged maps of the United States shows spots of "student-worker" protests as though these were Chinese outposts in a battle.

My objection that many of the protesting American students were Christians and pacifists were brushed aside.

Thirdly the Americans play an important role in the thought of Chairman Mao Tze-tung. According to Marx and Lenin, two become one; thesis and antithesis become synthesis. According to Chairman Mao, the greatest revisionist of them all, however, "one becomes two"; any one situation always contains two opposites, a contradiction, and there is no synthesis. "The struggle of opposites is ceaseless."

Thus there will always be a struggle between the party and the reactionaries. This struggle will never come to an end, socialism will never be transformed, and communism may be postponed forever.

Thus the devil will always be with us, and at present at any rate, the Americans fit the role better than anyone else. Why? Because they are the most powerful nation in the world, they are unrepentantly capitalist, their military bases still encircle China; and in Viet Nam they are fighting an antipeople's war, without overwhelming success.

$1200 Taxi Fare Said Chicagoan

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — The mysterious woman traveler who rode 2,640 miles by taxi from Toledo, Ohio, to California was identified Tuesday by her hosts as Mary Matz of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. George Kehriot is of Richmond said Mrs. Matz, 48, is the wife of Henry W. Matz, 86, owner of the Matz funeral home in Chicago.

Mrs. Matz startled the Kehriots Monday when a Toledo Taxi drove up to their home and the marathon taxi ride passenger they had been reading about turned out to be a relative. Mrs. Matz's husband is Mrs. Kehriot's uncle.

At Mrs. Matz request, the Kehriots kept her identity secret for a day. The two Toledo taxi drivers — paid $1,200 for the haul requiring 50 hours driving time — respected her request to remain incognito. Kehriots said that Mrs. Matz needed medical attention and would see a doctor.

Kehriots said Mrs. Matz had explained that she had left her home after a fight with members of her husband's family while he was seriously ill in a hospital.

Relatives reported Matz has been released from the hospital and is staying with his son, Clarence, in Chicago.

We are determined to see this through. The Americans have always been dead against China. In 1950 they bombed plants in Shanghai and have made more than 400 intrusions."

Some Bowling Green Students Disciplined

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — A few students have been disciplined as a result of vandalism during outburst of Green State University last week.

Dean Walter Taylor said today that university officials have talked with about 30 students considered to have been "overly rambunctious" April 18, when about 300 students milled through the campus area. Some damage was done to shrubs, screens and windows.

Why should we Chinese have aggressive designs on other countries when there is so much to be done here?"

Further embellishments are added to this general picture every day. China's sudden loss of friends in Ghana and Indonesia is due to CIA plotting; all American moves for peace in Viet Nam are a hoax.

Secondly, in spite of diplomatic setbacks, China still wishes to appear the leader of revolutionary movements against imperialism and neocolonialism all over the world.

The breakdown of the relationship with Cuba is still a traumatic experience which has not been adjusted to.

Deprived of the Cubans, China looks elsewhere for oppressed peoples to lead. Flagged maps of the United States shows spots of "student-worker" protests as though these were Chinese outposts in a battle.

My objection that many of the protesting American students were Christians and pacifists were brushed aside.

Thirdly the Americans play an important role in the thought of Chairman Mao Tze-tung. According to Marx and Lenin, two become one; thesis and antithesis become synthesis. According to Chairman Mao, the greatest revisionist of them all, however, "one becomes two"; any one situation always contains two opposites, a contradiction, and there is no synthesis. "The struggle of opposites is ceaseless."

Thus there will always be a struggle between the party and the reactionaries. This struggle will never come to an end, socialism will never be transformed, and communism may be postponed forever.

Thus the devil will always be with us and, at present at any rate, the Americans fit the role better than anyone else. Why? Because they are the most powerful nation in the world, they are unrepentantly capitalist, their military bases still encircle China; and in Viet Nam they are fighting an antipeople's war without overwhelming success.

$1200 Taxi Fare Said Chicagoan

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — The mysterious woman traveler who rode 2,640 miles by taxi from Toledo, Ohio, to California was identified Tuesday by her hosts as Mary Matz of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kehriotis of Richmond said Mrs. Matz, 48, is the wife of Henry W. Matz, 86, owner of the Matz funeral home in Chicago.

Mrs. Matz startled the Kehriotis Monday when a Toledo Taxi drove up to their home and the marathon taxi ride passenger they had been reading about turned out to be a relative. Mrs. Matz's husband is Mrs. Kehriotis' uncle.

At Mrs. Matz request, the Kehriotis kept her identity secret for a day. The two Toledo taxi drivers — paid $1,200 for the haul requiring 50 hours driving time — respected her request to remain incognito. Kehriotis said that Mrs. Matz needed medical attention and would see a doctor.

Kehriotis said Mrs. Matz had explained that she had left her home after a fight with members of her husband's family while he was seriously ill in a hospital.

Relatives reported Matz has been released from the hospital and is staying with his son, Clarence, in Chicago.

Second Graders Art Show
On 'Cruise' in China Sea

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The Christmas gift of Mary K. Burns' art class to American fighting men in Viet Nam has become a warmly appreciated cruising art show in the South China Sea.

The 24 crayon drawings by Miss Burns' second grade pupils at Oak Ridge School are on display in the library of the attack carrier USS Hancock.

In a letter, Lt. Cmdr. David W. Plank, the carrier's chaplain, reported how the work of the Oak Ridge youngsters finally, on April 6, reached the ship which is engaged in air strikes against the Viet Cong.

"Five days ago something wonderful happened.

"A battered and torn pink paper-wrapped cylindrical package arrived in my office.

U.N. Aide Says
Mankind Winning

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. John P. Humphrey, "Mr. Human Rights" at the United Nations for almost 20 years, believes man is winning his battle to maintain his individual rights in a society growing more complex every day.

At 61, Humphrey is retiring as director of the U.N. Division of Human Rights to return to the law faculty of McGill University in Montreal. He had been named dean of students there just before he took his new U.N. assignment in 1946. He is a native of Hampton, N. J.

He is not retiring from work in the field of human rights. He has been elected to membership on the Subcommittee on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, a subsidiary group of the U.N. Human Rights Commission. He will attend meetings of the subcommittee in January as one of its 18 experts.

In December 1948, the U.N. General Assembly adopted the universal declaration of human rights — the culmination of two years of effort of the Human Rights Commission under the chairmanship of Eleanor Roosevelt.

At the time, Mrs. Roosevelt stressed that the declaration was not binding legally. Humphrey takes the view that now the declaration has become part of customary international law aimed at protecting the individual against organized society.

He says this is so because of the general recognition the declaration has received in the international community. He says it is part of a new body of law which has given the individual new status over the past 20 years.

"And now," he adds, "the United Nations is taking the even more significant step of creating actual machinery to implement the protection of human rights."

fact, when I discovered it," Plank wrote to Robert W. Luther, Oak Ridge principal.

"The package was addressed to the U.S. Navy, Viet Nam.

"For 70 days, mind you, these 24 grease-crayon drawings and 19 letters from the boys and girls...had been bounced around Viet Nam—and no one wanted them.

"All they wanted was a home.

"They have one now, on the walls of our ship's library."

Chaplain Plank invited the Hancock's men to become art critics. They voted as judges in a contest awarding prizes to the pupils whose crayon pictures were picked as the best.

"I am impressed with the symbolism involved in the pictures," Plank said. "It is different from hearing of the action of the Vietnam Day Committee demonstrations in Berkeley and draft card burning."

Miss Burns said a note in the package explained the pictures were of things at home which her 8-year-old pupils felt would interest the soldiers and sailors in Viet Nam.

Miss Burns, 30, who came from Boston to Sacramento last fall, said a Hancock sailor, Bill Steyer, wrote asking for more drawings.

Twenty-nine more crayon drawings by the Oak Ridge School's second grade were mailed to the Hancock last week.

"We'll send out another batch before summer vacation," Miss Burns said.

Phantom Jet
Backers Point
To MIG Kill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force officials who have praised the Phantom jet as the best fighter plane in the world got backing for their view today with the F4C's first kill of the latest Soviet-built MIG model stationed in North Viet Nam.

The Phantom, originally a Navy aircraft but later modified for Air Force use, is bigger, faster and more heavily armed than the delta-wing Soviet interceptor. The Phantom also carries bombs for close support missions.

The F4C can operate in combat at 1,400 miles an hour over a 900-mile radius, compared with an 1,100-mile speed and 375-mile radius for the Soviet aircraft.

The MIG21, of which there are believed to be about 15 based in North Viet Nam, has three 37mm cannons and a number of air-to-air rockets similar in size and configuration to the Phantom's heat-seeking Sidewinder missile.

The Phantom, on the other hand, can carry a mix of eight Sparrow, Bullpup and Sidewinder missiles, plus more than two dozen 750- and 1,000-pound bombs and other weaponry including about 20 air-to-surface rockets.

The Phantom, carrying a crew of two, is powered by two turbojets. The one-man MIG21 uses a single engine.

Second Graders Art Show On 'Cruise' in China Sea

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The Christmas gift of Mary K. Burns' art class to American fighting men in Viet Nam has become a warmly appreciated cruising art show in the South China Sea.

The 24 crayon drawings by Miss Burns' second grade pupils at Oak Ridge School are on display in the library of the attack carrier USS Hancock.

In a letter, Lt. Cmdr. David W. Plank, the carrier's chaplain, reported how the work of the Oak Ridge youngsters finally, on April 6, reached the ship which is engaged in air strikes against the Viet Cong.

"Five days ago something wonderful happened. A battered and torn pink paper-wrapped cylindrical package arrived in my office. It was lying on the floor, in fact, when I discovered it," Plank wrote to Robert W. Luther, Oak Ridge principal.

"The package was addressed to the U.S. Navy, Viet Nam.

"For 70 days, mind you, these 24 grease-crayon drawings and 19 letters from the boys and girls...had been bounced around Viet Nam—and no one wanted them.

Human Rights Gains Seen

U.N. Aide Says
Mankind Winning

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. John P. Humphrey, "Mr. Human Rights" at the United Nations for almost 20 years, believes man is winning his battle to maintain his individual rights in a society growing more complex every day.

At 61, Humphrey is retiring as director of the U.N. Division of Human Rights to return to the law faculty of McGill University in Montreal. He had been named dean of students there just before he took his new U.N. assignment in 1946. He is a native of Hampton, N. J.

He is not retiring from work in the field of human rights. He has been elected to membership on the Subcommittee on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, a subsidiary group of the U.N. Human Rights Commission. He will attend meetings of the subcommittee in January as one of its 18 experts.

In December 1948, the U.N. General Assembly adopted the universal declaration of human rights — the culmination of two years of effort of the Human Rights Commission under the chairmanship of Eleanor Roosevelt.

Legendary Bonanza in Texas Hills Is Claimed Found by Geology Crew

BEND, Tex. (AP) —Fifty miles north of President Johnson's ranch, on a rock-choked hill overlooking the Colorado River, eight men think they have found the lost San Saba mine—legendary bonanza of two centuries ago.

The Spaniards abandoned the mine in 1758, so the story goes, when 2,000 Comanche Indians overran their mission.

Men have searched for the mine ever since.

Now eight men report they have found the ore.

The geologist who spurred the hunt says they found it where Don Bernardo de Miranda said it was: on the Cerro del Almagre—loosely, the Red Hill.

Miranda, discoverer of the mine, was a lieutenant general of the Spanish Province of Texas in the 18th century. He said the hill was so rich "I guarantee to give to every settler of the Province of Texas a full claim."

Arville Cummins, 45, the geologist, says Miranda was right. The mine may be worth as much as $200 million, he says.

Red Hill is about seven miles south of Bend, population 200.

Five dark red boulders once stood where the men think the mine is today. They contrasted sharply with the dull gray dolomite limestone.

"I was curious about them from the very first," says rancher T.S. Lemons Sr., 65, who in 1944 bought 3,300 acres of this rough, remote country, including Red Hill.

A weather-beaten man with bristling gray eyebrows that meet over his long, bent nose, Lemons said he knew the red boulders had to mean something. "So I brought in some geologists—some of those smart boys—to look at it."

"They'd look at it and run their hands over it and then go off."

"They said something like that just couldn't be in this part of the world."

Years passed. Then in August 1964, Lemons' son, T.S. Lemons Jr., 40, was fishing in the Colorado—almost in the shadow of Red Hill—when he noticed a glint in a rock under water.

He chipped off the shiny part of the rock and put it in his pocket. Some months later he took it to Cummins in Lampasas.

Cummins said the Lemons' rock had gold and sent it to the Colorado Assaying Co. in Denver for an official test.

"It assayed out at $25.90 a ton," he said. "Not really big but worth looking into more."

Cummins and the younger Lemons hunted the source of the ore from the river.

Less than a mile from Red Hill they found some old, undecipherable markings on a hackberry tree.

The bark showed a semicircle cupped over a "V." Under the "V" was a nearly horizontal line.

Is the semicircle a half moon, universal map symbol for treasure? Lemons' metal detector later indicated a considerable metallic deposit under the tree.

A five-foot deep hole was dug there last summer. Nothing was found at that depth and the digging was abandoned in favor of digging on Red Hill.

Before they got around to that, however, they found three holes drilled in the limestone wall of a gully on Red Hill.

Evidence of an old smelter was found about a mile from Red Hill.

Finally they came to the dark red boulders on Red Hill. They blasted all but one of them—preserved by the elder Lemons as a memento—and dug where they had been.

The first ore sample assayed at $3.15 a ton in gold—almost worthless.

At 21 feet it jumped to $29.25 a ton, slightly better than what Lemons found in the river.

The two men decided to form a partnership with two other men and lease the land from Lemons' father, who would get royalties.

The other two men are

Cummins' father, Aaron, Cummins, 69, a retired grocer; and R. R. McCoy, 64, Lampasas dirt contractor who had worked with the younger Cummins before.

It took two months just to put a road down the rocky slope to the mine. Then the digging and blasting began again.

Two weeks later, Cummins hit darker ore that assayed at $43.75 a ton.

At 35 feet they hit ore that looked even richer. It was assayed at $467.60 a ton.

The partners have been working from dawn to dusk to get into full production, but have been held back by a series of minor delays.

Mistrial Declared In Dayton Death Case

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Common Pleas Judge Carl Kessler declared a mistrial Tuesday in the case of 25-year-old Alfred L. Davis, accused of second-degree murder in a July 9 shooting spree on the Chrysler Air-Tempe plant assembly line.

Davis was charged with the fatal shooting of Raymond Kiser, 21. Two other men were wounded in the plant shooting. Judge Kessler in declaring the mistrial noted that attorneys for both the prosecution and defense, as well as the court, agreed that additional medical testimony is needed in order to "get at the truth of the matters involved."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says "there is no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

Does this mean that, if Red Chinese planes attack U.S. planes or forces in Viet Nam and then flee back to "sanctuary" in their homeland, American planes will pursue them and bomb them in Red China?

Maybe. But until this is spelled out further in words or deeds, what the State Department said will have to carry a question mark behind it.

It is now one war and 15 years later than the Korean war in which the American policy was not to do any fighting in or over Red China even though the Chinese invaded Korea massively under the label of "volunteers."

It was this policy which brought on the historic clash in 1951 between President Harry S. Truman, who wanted to avoid direct war with Red China, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who wanted to bomb it. Truman fired him finally.

In a basic sense Truman's position was similar to President Johnson's today.

Truman was determined to resist North Korean Communist aggression against South Korea but if possible to limit the war to Korea since enlargement, through the involvement of Red China, might lead to World War III.

Johnson has been determined to resist the aggression of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese Communists against South Viet Nam while trying to limit the war to Viet Nam and hoping to avoid tangling with Red China.

In Truman's case the "sanctuary" of Red China was preserved and later a truce achieved, even though the Red Chinese war up to their necks in Korea.

For the past 10 days the air war over North Viet Nam has been expanding dramatically, with U.S. fighter planes in a series of dogfights with Soviet-designed MIG21s.

Robert J. McCloskey, the State Department press officer, was asked Tuesday if the Red planes had come into North Viet Nam from Chinese bases. He said "we have no information which would lead to such a conclusion."

How Weather Looks Today

CENTRAL OHIO—Low in upper 40s. Thursday partly cloudy with occasional showers or thundershowers and warmer. High near 70.

NORTHWEST AND NORTHEAST OHIO Cloudy, windy and unseasonably cool with intervals of light rain tonight. Low 36-43. Thursday cloudy, scattered showers and a little warmer.

SOUTHEAST OHIO—Mostly cloudy tonight. Lowest around 50. Thursday partly cloudy and warmer with occasional showers or thundershowers. High in low 70s.

SOUTHWEST OHIO—Partial clearing and a little warmer tonight. Low 52-57. Thursday partly cloudy and warmer with scattered late afternoon thundershowers.

OHIO 5-DAY FORECAST

Temperatures are expected to average 4-7 degrees below normal the next five days. Representative normal highs and lows are Cleveland 64-41, Columbus 69-45, and Cincinnati 70-49. Warmer Thursday, turning cooler Friday, warming a little over the weekend and then cooler again about Monday. Precipitation will total about one-half to one inch as rain or showers about Thursday and again about Sunday.

By James Marlow

But, explaining that he was repeating a position stated by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in the past, McCloskey said about the possibility the MIGs came from Red China: "There is no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

Then, however, he declined to say whether the "no sanctuary" policy means American planes may chase enemy jets into Communist China if the Red craft flee across the frontier.

Until he is willing to say whether that's what it means, then what meaning does "no sanctuary" have at all, unless it's meant to make the Chinese think twice as of now they don't know what Rusk has in mind?

It was last July 11 that Rusk said North Viet Nam's supporters "must take fully into account" that in the Viet Nam war "the idea of sanctuary is dead."

At that time other U.S. sources said Red China had been told those who might join in an attack on South Viet Nam could not expect immunity from reprisal.

At least saying there is no sanctuary in this war is further than the U.S. government was willing to go in the Korean war. But then the United States was far less equipped for a big war than now.

In a basic sense Truman's position was similar to President Johnson's today.

Truman was determined to resist North Korean Communist aggression against South Korea but if possible to limit the war to Korea since enlargement, through the involvement of Red China, might lead to World War III.

Johnson has been determined to resist the aggression of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese Communists against South Viet Nam while trying to limit the war to Viet Nam and hoping to avoid tangling with Red China.

In Truman's case the "sanctuary" of Red China was preserved and later a truce achieved, even though the Red Chinese were up to their necks in Korea.

For the past 10 days the air war over North Viet Nam has been expanding dramatically with U.S. fighter planes in a series of dogfights with Soviet-designed MIG21s.

Robert J. McCloskey, the State Department press officer, was asked Tuesday if the Red planes had come into North Viet Nam from Chinese bases. He said "we have no information which would lead to such a conclusion."

Legendary Bonanza in Texas Hills Is Claimed Found by Geology Crew

BEND, Tex. (AP) —Fifty miles north of President Johnson's ranch, on a rock-choked hill overlooking the Colorado River, eight men think they have found the lost San Saba mine—legendary bonanza of two centuries ago.

The Spaniards abandoned the mine in 1758, so the story goes, when 2,000 Comanche Indians overran their mission.

Men have searched for the mine ever since.

Now eight men report they have found the ore.

The geologist who spurred the hunt says they found it where Don Bernardo de Miranda said it was: on the Cerro del Almagra—loosely, the Red Hill. Miranda, discoverer of the mine, was a lieutenant general of the Spanish Province of Texas in the 18th century. He said the hill was so rich "I guarantee to give to every settler of the Province of Texas a full claim."

Arville Cummins, 45, the geologist, says Miranda was right. The mine may be worth as much as $200 million, he says.

Red Hill is about seven miles south of Bend, population 200. Five dark red boulders once stood where the men think the mine is today. They contrasted sharply with the dull gray dolomite limestone.

"I was curious about them from the very first," says rancher T.S. Lemons Sr., 65, who in 1944 bought 3,300 acres of this rough, remote country, including Red Hill.

A weather-beaten man with bristling gray eyebrows that meet over his long, bent nose, Lemons said he knew the red boulders had to mean something. "So I brought in some geologists—some of those smart boys—to look at it."

"They'd look at it and run their hands over it and then go off."

"They said something like that just couldn't be in this part of the world."

Years passed. Then in August 1964, Lemons' son, T.S. Lemons Jr., 40, was fishing in the Colorado—almost in the shadow of Red Hill—when he noticed a glint in a rock under water.

He chipped off the shiny part of the rock and put it in his pocket. Some months later he took it to Cummins in Lampasas.

Cummins said the Lemons' rock had gold and sent it to the Colorado Assaying Co. in Denver for an official test.

"It assayed out at $25.90 a ton," he said. "Not really big but worth looking into more."

Cummins and the younger Lemons hunted the source of the ore from the river.

Less than a mile from Red Hill they found some old, decipherable markings on a hackberry tree.

The bark showed a semicircle cupped over a "V." Under the "V" was a nearly horizontal line.

Is the semicircle a half moon, universal map symbol for treasure? Lemons' metal detector later indicated a considerable metallic deposit under the tree.

A five-foot deep hole was dug there last summer. Nothing was found at that depth and the digging was abandoned in favor of digging on Red Hill.

Before they got around to that, however, they found three holes drilled in the limestone wall of a gully on Red Hill.

Evidence of an old smelter was found about a mile from Red Hill.

Finally they came to the dark red boulders on Red Hill. They blasted all but one of them—preserved by the elder Lemons as a memento—and dug where they had been.

The first ore sample assayed at $3.15 a ton in gold—almost worthless.

At 21 feet it jumped to $29.25 a ton, slightly better than what Lemons found in the river.

The two men decided to form a partnership with two other men and lease the land from Lemons' father, who would get royalties.

The other two men are

Cummins' father, Aaron, Cummins, 69, a retired grocer; and R. R. McCoy, 64, Lampasas dirt contractor who had worked with the younger Cummins before.

It took two months just to put a road down the rocky slope to the mine. Then the digging and blasting began again.

Two weeks later, Cummins hit darker ore that assayed at $43.75 a ton.

At 35 feet they hit ore that looked even richer. It was assayed at $467.60 a ton.

The partners have been working from dawn to dusk to get into full production, but have been held back by a series of minor delays.

Mistrial Declared In Dayton Death Case

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Common Pleas Judge Carl Kessler declared a mistrial Tuesday in the case of 25-year-old Alfred L. Davis, accused of second-degree murder in a July 9 shooting spree on the Chrysler Air-Tempe plant assembly line.

Davis was charged with the fatal shooting of Raymond Kiser, 21. Two other men were wounded in the plant shooting.

Judge Kessler in declaring the mistrial noted that attorneys for both the prosecution and defense, as well as the court, agreed that additional medical testimony is needed in order to "get at the truth of the matters involved."

Hedy Lamarr Given Freedom

Jury Shuns Rap Of Petty Theft

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Hedy Lamarr's role was for real. She played it with dignity and a smile.

"Not guilty," said a Municipal Court clerk, reading the jury's verdict Tuesday at the climax of Miss Lamarr's six-day trial on a charge of shoplifting.

Applause burst from some 50 spectators who had stuck through attorneys' final arguments and five hours' jury deliberation.

Hedy, 51, sitting erect at the counsel table, handsome in a camel-hair suit, her caramel-blond hair chieftly tousled, flashed a smile. Then another. Her kid-gloved fingers entwined the fingers of her attorney in a victory grip.

She walked to the jury box. Smiling, she thanked and shook hands with each of the seven men and five women jurors.

"I told the truth and the truth is easy to tell," said the Viennese-born star of "Ecstasy" at 15, and later a score of films including "Algiers," "Heavenly Jan."

The truth, the prosecution said, was that she stole 18 items — clothing, cosmetics, etc. — worth a total of $86 from the May Co.'s Wilshire Boulevard department store last Jan. 27.

A woman employee made a citizen's arrest of her as she left the store. Miss Lamarr testified Monday she had gone out to look for her business manager, planned to pay for the items all at once, and added: "I never did intend to steal."

The charge was petty theft.

Medical Mirror

MEASLES IN ADULTS

Q. Can adults have measles?

A. Measles is mainly a disease of children but no age is exempt. In populations that lack widespread immunity, measles attacks all ages indiscriminately.

SWIMMING AND EAR DISEASE

Q. Last year I had an ear infection which left me with a punctured ear-drum. I like to swim. The question is, should I?

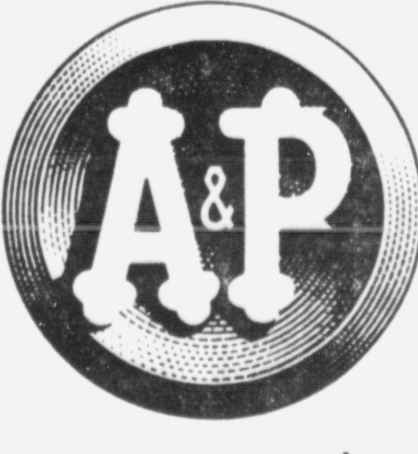

A. Swimming and diving should be avoided by those who have a perforated ear-drum. If you insist on swimming (no diving), use some type of water-tight ear plug. Any water — whether sea, fresh, or chlorinated — may do harm if it enters the middle ear through a perforation.

Remember — the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

It is your right and privilege to have your prescription filled at a pharmacy of your choice. Choose wisely on the basis of professional competency and price fairness.

Library Aide Both Blind and Deaf, Is Irritated by Any Sympathy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earl I. Brawner's world is dark and silent. He is blind and deaf. But the hard-working, 27-year-old Brawner wants no sympathy. In fact, it irritates him. "Sympathy is not wanted and should not be wanted by any deaf, blind person," Brawner says. "I just want to be considered a human being like anyone else."

He holds a full-time job as an 80-a-week Braille assistant in the Library of Congress' Division for the Blind.

He writes short stories, war essays, romances—"Easy to read stuff."

He puffs occasionally on a big cigar.

He enjoys physical exercise, particularly wrestling.

When the broadshouldered

For an interview, another blind library employee translated questions into manual alphabet, spelling out words in Brawner's palm. Brawner answered in a halting, but easily understood monotone.

He said he lost his sight and hearing in 1950, at the age of 11, when stricken by spinal meningitis. After a year in a hospital, he started the long period of training and adjustment. In 1961 he graduated from high school.

In July 1965 he went to work for the library.

A bachelor, he lives with his parents, three brothers and a sister. He rides to work in a taxi. At the library, he isn't bothered with the sympathy he says he doesn't want. More than one-fourth of his fellow employees in the division also are blind, although none of the others are both blind and deaf.

Brawner enjoys writing in Braille—when not at work. "I have nothing much more to do," he said. His stories deal mostly with situations involving blind and deaf persons. He has not tried to sell them "because I never considered them good enough."

Some day, though, he hopes to "move away from my family and get my own room in a rooming house and write my book which I will try to publish. "I want to be independent as much as possible."

'Major' Dickie, Age 5, Gets White House Note

LANSING, Mich., (AP)—Dickie Weber, the 5-year-old honorary Army Reserve major who is suffering from leukemia, has received encouragement from the White House.

He also has received a mass donation of 92 pints of blood in the 10 weeks since he was commissioned.

Dozens of people across the country, many of them friends or relatives of leukemia victims, have written their support—and even advocated some well-meaning although medically unrecognized cures for the disease.

Under the care of doctors at University of Michigan Hospital, Dickie has managed to put the disease into at least a temporary regression.

Every day the bouncy crew-cut blond holds his own is one more day for medical research to progress.

Dickie hasn't required a blood transfusion in several months, and he is still attending kindergarten.

Officers and men of Lansing's 4th Howitzer Battalion of the 20th Artillery donated 92 pints of blood at their Army Reserve meeting Sunday.

The unit awarded Dickie his major's gold leaf in February against leukemia. Now he comes to all the weekend meetings from his home a few blocks away, wearing a cut-down Army uniform and toting a toy .45 caliber pistol.

James Moyers, a special assistant to President Johnson, wrote Dickie "about the nice story in the newspaper about you. The President read it. He wants you to know that he is proud of you for being such a brave young man, and he knows you will keep on doing what the doctors tell you to do."

Petite Petula Insists She Is No Rock 'n' Roll Singer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Petite Petula Clark has exploded her singing talent on the Hollywood scene, startling those who thought of her as a rock 'n' roll singer.

The fresh-faced, snub-nosed British singer sold a stellar audience at the Coconut Grove on her varied repertoire of something old and much that is new. Her performance was a revelation to those who came expecting a teen-type rocker.

The reason for that reputation was her first American record, "Downtown," which was such a favorite with the youthful crowd that her talent as a song-belter was virtually obscured.

"But 'Downtown' is not a rock 'n' roll song; it is really a very beautiful piece of music," she opened in her Ambassador Hotel suite as one of her two young daughters crawled over her. "I have certainly never considered myself a rock 'n' roll singer."

"Last year at the Grammy Awards, I accepted my statuette for 'Downtown,' then I noticed the inscription. I commented, 'I didn't know I was a rock 'n' roll singer.' The emcee hemmed and hawed over that."

"I was glad to see that when I won this year for 'I Know a Place,' the category had been changed."

"Downtown" brought many changes to her life.

"Actually, this was the time when I expected to be slowing down my career," she remarked, adding with no false modesty: "I had enjoyed a career as the most successful female performer in England and on the Continent. Having had the best of it, I thought I would be settling down to the house we are building in Switzerland—we also have places in Paris and on the Cote d'Azur—as my daughters would soon be starting school."

"And then 'Downtown' was released in this country. Now we have doubled our travel time, and who knows when it will end?"

Petula, who is married to and managed by Frenchman Claud Wolff, is a veteran of British show business despite her gamine appearance. She began by performing before soldiers in the war, along with another noted star.

Embrey Scheduled At Rotary Meet

Nelson Embrey of the local radio station will be guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of the Circleville Rotary Club.

Embrey's topic will be "Radio." Robert Porter is in charge of the program.

The regular luncheon session and program will be conducted at the St. Philip's Church Parish House.

He writes short stories, war essays, romances—"Easy to read stuff."

He puffs occasionally on a big cigar.

He enjoys physical exercise, particularly wrestling.

When the broadshouldered

Brawner is at work in the library's crowded annex, it takes more than a casual glance to realize he can neither see nor hear.

He dresses in a white shirt and dark slacks. His tie is neatly knotted, his shoes shined, his hair close-cropped.

His movements are quick and sure as he grades and corrects correspondence work done in Braille by sighted volunteers studying to become teachers of the blind.

He is a competent typist, sometimes preparing title pages for Braille books being sent to regional libraries for lending to the blind.

He has learned to operate a machine that duplicates a page of Braille.

For an interview, another blind library employee translated questions into manual alphabet, spelling out words in Brawner's palm. Brawner answered in a halting, but easily understood monotone.

He said he lost his sight and hearing in 1950, at the age of 11, when stricken by spinal meningitis. After a year in a hospital, he started the long period of training and adjustment. In 1964 he graduated from high school.

In July 1965 he went to work for the library.

He also has received a mass donation of 92 pints of blood in the 10 weeks since he was commissioned.

Dozens of people across the country, many of them friends or relatives of leukemia victims, have written their support—and even advocated some well-meaning although medically unrecognized cures for the disease.

Under the care of doctors at University of Michigan Hospital, Dickie has managed to put the disease into at least a temporary regression.

Every day the bouncy, crew-cut blond holds his own is one more day for medical research to progress.

Dickie hasn't required a blood transfusion in several months, and he is still attending kindergarten.

Officers and men of Lansing's 4th Howitzer Battalion of the 20th Artillery donated 92 pints of blood at their Army Reserve meeting Sunday.

The unit awarded Dickie his major's gold leaf in February against leukemia. Now he comes to all the weekend meetings from his home a few blocks away, wearing a cut-down Army uniform and toting a toy .45 caliber pistol.

James Moyers, a special assistant to President Johnson, wrote Dickie "about the nice story in the newspaper about you. The President read it. He wants you to know that he is proud of you for being such a brave young man, and he knows you will keep on doing what the doctors tell you to do."

Petite Petula Insists She Is No Rock 'n' Roll Singer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Petite Petula Clark has expiored her singing talent on the Hollywood scene, startling those who thought of her as a rock 'n' roll singer.

The fresh-faced, snub-nosed British singer sold a stellar audience at the Coconut Grove on her varied repertoire of something old and much that is new. Her performance was a revelation to those who came expecting a teen-type rocker.

The reason for that reputation was her first American record, "Downtown," which was such a favorite with the youthful crowd that her talent as a song-belter was virtually obscured.

"But 'Downtown' is not a rock 'n' roll song; it is really a very beautiful piece of music," she opened in her Ambassador Hotel suite as one of her two young daughters crawled over her. "I have certainly never considered myself a rock 'n' roll singer."

"Last year at the Grammy Awards, I accepted my statuette for 'Downtown,' then I noticed the inscription. I commented, 'I didn't know I was a rock 'n' roll singer.' The emcee hemmed and hawed over that."

"I was glad to see that when I won this year for 'I Know a Place,' the category had been changed."

"Downtown" brought many changes to her life.

"Actually, this was the time when I expected to be slowing down my career," she remarked, adding with no false modesty: "I had enjoyed a career as the most successful female performer in England and on the Continent. Having had the best of it, I thought I would be settling down to the house we are building in Switzerland — we also have places in Paris and on the Cote d'Azur — as my daughters would soon be starting school."

"And then 'Downtown' was released in this country. Now we have doubled our travel time, and who knows when it will end?"

Petula, who is married to and managed by Frenchman Claud Wolff, is a veteran of British show business despite her gamine appearance. She began by performing before soldiers in the war, along with another noted star.

Relief Hurler May Be Key To Red Wings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rochester Manager Earl Weaver might be well advised to let ace relief pitcher Ken Rowe make at least a token appearance in each game the Red Wings play in the International League.

Rowe, a 32-year old right-hander, was not of fire last year when he won five games and lost seven for Rochester. However, four times in Rochester's five games this season, Rowe has trudged from the bullpen to take over. The result: Two saves, one victory. Rochester won the other game in which he pitched, lost the only one in which he didn't.

His victory came Tuesday night when the Red Wings handed the Jacksonville Suns their first defeat 54 and dropped the Suns out of first place. Rowe gave up one hit.

In other Tuesday night games, the Syracuse Chiefs handed Richmond its fifth straight defeat 82 and Columbus took over the league lead with a 4-3 victory over Buffalo. Toronto's scheduled game at Toledo was postponed because of cold weather.

Columbus kept its record clear in three starts on the hitting and running of Mike Derrick and George Spriggs and the relief pitching of Sam Jones, who struck out Jerry Reimer and got Frank Obregon on an infield tap with the bases loaded in the ninth inning.

Cincy Stadium Cost Is Sought

CINCINNATI (AP)—A $141,500 contract is expected to be signed today for preliminary design and cost estimates for Cincinnati's planned river front stadium.

Verbal agreement was reached Tuesday after talks between City Manager William C. Wichman and Heery and Heery and Finch, Alexander, Barnes, Rothschild and Paschal, the Atlanta, Ga., architectural team that designed Atlanta's $18 million stadium.

Work is to be complete by July 1 on preliminary plans for a stadium that would seat up to 45,000 for baseball and 55,000 for football and could be fitted with an all-weather dome at a later date.

The International Olympic Committee named the West German city of Munich as the 1972 summer site Tuesday and awarded the Winter Games to Sapporo, Japan, later in the day.

De Vincenzo Is Winner of Dallas Open

DALLAS (AP) — Roberto de Vincenzo, called the International Sam Snead because he wins so many golf tournaments in so many countries, departs today for Casa Blanca on another of his globetrotting jaunts. He'll play a televised match there with Tom Weiskopf.

He won his fifth tournament in the United States—in a 10-year period Tuesday when he came from four strokes back, shot a four-underpar 67 and took down the $15,000 first money in the Dallas Open with a 72 hole score of 276.

It was, he revealed, the 120th tournament victory in an international golfing career that began in 1945 when he won the Argentine Open.

He has won the National Open in 13 countries—Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, France, Germany, Belgium, Holland, Chile, Peru, Colombia, Panama, Jamaica and Mexico.

De Vincenzo won the Colonial National Invitation at Fort Worth in 1957 and that was his biggest purse until Tuesday when he won the Dallas Open by one stroke over Ray Floyd, Joe Campbell and Harold Henning.

Lakers Knot NBA Playoff With Celtics

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was an angry Red Auerbach who faced a return trip to Boston today, after the Los Angeles Lakers closed a 3-1 gap and forced Auerbach's world champion Celtics into a seventh game in the 1966 National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Lakers, inspired by rookie Gail Goodrich, defeated the Celtics, 123-115, Tuesday night in the sixth game of the best-of-seven playoff match.

The deciding game will be played Thursday night in Boston.

Many fans had counted the Lakers down and out last Friday, when they trailed 3-1 in games. But Los Angeles defeated Boston, 122-117, Sunday in Boston Garden and then returned home to tie the series.

The loss was a bitter disappointment to Auerbach, who retires this season after 21 years as a coach and after seven straight NBA titles. He's still hoping the Celtics give him his eighth NBA trophy.

Laker coach Fred Schaus praised the playing of the Lakers—particularly Goodrich, who at 6-foot-11 is the squad's smallest man.

"The Lakers, to a man, feel we can win the championship in Boston, even though this means we will have had to win three in a row," said Schaus.

Logan Elm '9' Earns First Win

The Logan Elm Braves won their first baseball game of the season Tuesday, defeating visiting Paint Valley, 5-1, in Scioto Valley Conference action.

Dale Jenne was the winning pitcher. It was the first start for the sophomore hurler who went all the way.

He showed excellent control, not issuing a single base on balls. He fanned 11 during his seven-inning stint and was touched for five hits.

The Braves only tagged three hits, but they came at key intervals.

***

IN THE first inning, Tom Smith walked, was advanced to second by a sacrifice bunt, moved to third on a fielder's choice and then scored on an error.

The third frame saw the Braves come up with two big runs when two men were walked by the Paint Valley pitcher. Russ Merrin then smashed a double that drove both baserunners across the plate.

In the fifth inning, a walk, an error and a single by Roy Strasser accounted for two runs for the Braves.

The Bearcats scored their run in the third frame when Stevens led off with a double and then scored on back-to-back singles by Darbyshire and Combs.

Paint Valley pitcher Haas walked four and fanned four.

Logan Elm's record in the Scioto Valley Conference is now 1-3. Paint Valley is winless in the conference and has a 1-7 overall record.

THE NEXT regularly scheduled game for the Braves comes Friday at Zane Trace.

Sectional baseball play is slated to start Friday. Coach Vic Pontius noted the game with Zane Trace may be preempted by a tourney tilt.

Losing Reds Also Lose Top Pitcher

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "That's the way it goes," sighed Cincinnati Reds Manager Don Heffner. "When things are going badly, there's nothing halfway about it."

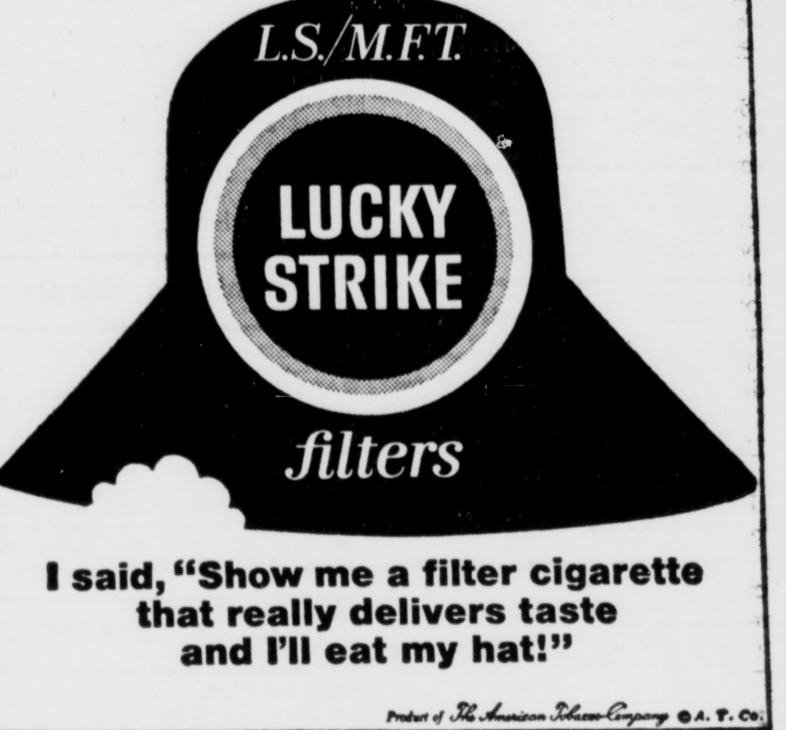

Heffner commented after learning his top pitcher, Jim Maloney, will be out of action for at least a week with a sore elbow on his right arm.

It was hoped that Maloney, who injured his arm Monday at Houston and was flown back to Cincinnati, would be able to work this weekend against the Los Angeles Dodgers. But club physician, Dr. George Ballou, said it'll be next Tuesday before Maloney can pitch.

Dr. Ballou said Maloney has an inflamed tendon in his elbow. He said it does not appear to be serious, but added that the injury was not similar to the arm trouble that annoyed Maloney off-and-on last season.

The Reds, idle Tuesday, opened a two-game series today with the San Francisco Giants.

Cincinnati is in last place in the National League.

Relief Hurler May Be Key To Red Wings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rochester Manager Earl Weaver might be well advised to let ace relief pitcher Ken Rowe make at least a token appearance in each game the Red Wings play in the International League.

Rowe, a 32-year old right-hander, was no ball of fire last year when he won five games and lost seven for Rochester. However, four times in Rochester's five games this season, Rowe has trudged from the bullpen to take over. The result: Two saves, one victory. Rochester won the other game in which he pitched, lost the only one in which he didn't.

His victory came Tuesday night when the Red Wings handed the Jacksonville Suns their first defeat 5-1 and dropped the Suns out of first place. Rowe gave up one hit.

In other Tuesday night games, the Syracuse Chiefs handed Richmond its fifth straight defeat 8-2 and Columbus took over the league lead with a 4-3 victory over Buffalo. Toronto's scheduled game at Toledo was postponed because of cold weather.

Columbus kept its record clear in three starts on the hitting and running of Mike Derick and George Spriggs and the relief pitching of Sam Jones, who struck out Jerry Reimer and got Frank Obregon on an infield tap with the bases loaded in the ninth inning.

Cincy Stadium Cost Is Sought

CINCINNATI (AP)—A $141,500 contract is expected to be signed today for preliminary design and cost estimates for Cincinnati's planned river front stadium.

Verbal agreement was reached Tuesday after talks between City Manager William C. Wichman and Heery and Heery and Finch, Alexander, Barnes, Rothschild and Paschal, the Atlanta, Ga., architectural team that designed Atlanta's $18 million stadium.

Work is to be complete by July 1 on preliminary plans for a stadium that would seat up to 45,000 for baseball and 55,000 for football and could be fitted with an all-weather dome at a later date.

Lakers Knot NBA Playoff With Celtics

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was an angry Red Auerbach who faced a return trip to Boston today, after the Los Angeles Lakers closed a 3-1 gap and forced Auerbach's world champion Celtics into a seventh game in the 1966 National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Lakers, inspired by rookie Gail Goodrich, defeated the Celtics, 123-115, Tuesday night in the sixth game of the best-of-seven playoff match.

The deciding game will be played Thursday night in Boston.

Many fans had counted the Lakers down and out last Friday, when they trailed 3-1 in games. But Los Angeles defeated Boston, 122-117, Sunday in Boston Garden and then returned home to tie the series.

The loss was a bitter disappointment to Auerbach, who retires this season after 21 years as a coach and after seven straight NBA titles. He's still hoping the Celtics give him his eighth NBA trophy.

Laker coach Fred Schaus praised the playing of the Lakers—particularly Goodrich, who at 6-foot-1 is the squad's smallest man.

"The Lakers, to a man, feel we can win the championship in Boston, even though this means we will have had to win three in a row," said Schaus.

Kent State Cage Stock Is Soaring

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Three weeks ago Kent State's basketball stock soared immeasurably with one significant announcement.

Frank Truitt, a gifted teacher, scout and recruiter, was named head coach of the Golden Flashes.

It could be just the boost needed to change the grim cage picture at Ohio's second largest state university.

Kent hasn't had a winning season since 1952 and in the last 14 years has compiled a dull 107-205 record.

School officials are confident that Truitt, a crafty tactician, will deliver.

Truitt, himself, feels that Kent offers "a great challenge" but he approaches his task with guarded optimism.

"If we can get a break in recruiting we could show vast improvement," he contends. "But I don't expect overnight miracles."

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE
The Circleville Lumber Company, Plaintiff
George D. Speakman, et al., Defendants
Court of Common Pleas, Pickaway County, Ohio.
Case No. 2436

In pursuance of an Order of Sale from said Court to me directed in the above entitled action, I will expose to sale, at public auction at the door of the Court House in Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, on Tuesday the 31st day of May 1966, at 1:30 o'clock P. M. the following described real estate, situated in the County of Pickaway and State of Ohio, and in the City of Circleville to-wit:

Being Lot Number Sixty-Nine (69) in the P-A-T Subdivision as delineated and more fully described in the Plat of said Subdivision, recorded in Plat Book No. 3, Page 46, Pickaway County Records Office, to which reference is made for greater certainty as to the description of said lot, and easements for utilities, etc. Said lot contains a frame, one floor dwelling consisting of six rooms, and is located at 345 Edwards Road, Circleville, Ohio.

Said Premises Appraised at ($15000.00) Fifteen Thousand dollars, and will be sold for not less than two-thirds of the appraised value.

Terms of Sale: Ten per cent (10 per cent) of the purchase price to be paid to the sheriff immediately upon the sale, and the balance of the purchase price to be paid to the Sheriff upon confirmation of the sale by the court and the delivery of the deed, this amount to be paid by cash or certified check.

Yet, recruiting is one of Truitt's chief assets. The theory is that many talented Ohio scholastic stars will flock to Kent because they want to play for the congenial coach.

"Kent has grown in the last few years and has much to offer educationally," Truitt observed. "There's no reason why we shouldn't get our share of the good players."

Truitt, 41, was released from a four-year contract at Louisiana State University after completing the first year of a rebuilding job with a 6-20 record. Before that, he was an assistant at Ohio State and was Buckeye Coach Fred Taylor's top aide during the Jerry Lucas John Havlicek era.

An Otterbein graduate, Truitt starred in basketball and golf and still is considered among the state's top amateur golfers.

One of Truitt's biggest thrills came in 1958 while coaching Columbus North. His team broke Middletown's 76-game winning streak in the state tournament but later lost the title to Cleveland East Tech.

Indians Earn Rare Spot in Record Books

Tribe Undefeated In First 9 Games Of 1966 Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cleveland's streaking Indians have earned themselves a spot in baseball's record book right alongside the extinct St. Louis Browns. Now if they would just follow suit and go away too, Baltimore would be sitting pretty.

The Indians' ninth straight victory—a 4-0 shutout against Kansas City by Luis Tiant Tuesday night—equalled the American League mark for consecutive victories at the start of the season set by the Browns in 1944. St. Louis won the pennant that year.

Meanwhile, second place Baltimore kept pace with a power display that beat California 7-3. It was the Orioles' ninth victory in 10 starts, a .900 pace that would be good enough for first place most of the time but not in the American League right now.

Dave Johnson, Brooks Robinson, Curt Blefary and Andy Etchebarren provided the muscle for the Orioles with home runs that accounted for six runs.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York snapped a seven-game losing streak with a three-run ninth inning rally that beat Boston 7-6, and Chicago downed Washington 4-1.

In the National League, New York outlasted Chicago 14-11, Los Angeles downed St. Louis 4-2 and Atlanta bombed San Francisco 11-3.

Tiant's second straight shut-out gave the Cuban right-hander a perfect 0.00 earned run average. He blanked Boston in his first start 10 days ago.

Against Kansas City, Tiant allowed just three hits and struck out 12. He got all the runs he needed on homers by Larry Brown and Duke Sims.

The patient Orioles stayed right with the Indians by hammering four home runs. Johnson and Brooks Robinson each had two shots while Blefary and Etchebarren added solo clouts.

Jose Cardenal and Bobby Knopf homered for California.

Baltimore's Robinson Rock continued to provide much of the Orioles' offensive punch. Brooks, who had a single to go with his homer, raised his average to .415 and has driven in 18 runs, tops in the league. Frank Robinson had two hits and jumped his league-leading average to .471.

The Yankees, who had lost 10 of their first 11 games, took a 4-2 lead into the ninth inning against the Red Sox when Boston rallied for four runs against Whitey Ford and three relievers.

But New York came back, tying it on a walk, three singles, a sacrifice and an infield out. Then Joe Pepitone's line single brought Roger Repoz home with the winning run.

Mickey Mantle had three hits and he and Roger Maris drove in their first runs of the season for the Yankees.

Floyd Robinson rapped a two-run homer in the first inning and then Joel Horlen and Eddie Fisher combined on a seven-hit batter that beat the Senators.

Robinson, who has hit in all 11 games Chicago has played, connected after Tommie Agee's leadoff single in the opening inning. He added a double later.

Fisher bailed Horlen out of a bases-loaded jam in the ninth inning, retiring the last two Washington hitters.

Bond Week Proclaimed In Community

This community will join millions of Americans in jointly observing a silver anniversary next week. May 1 will mark the 25th birthday of the Series E Savings Bond, considered a thrift instrument that has affected the lives of most citizens.

Mayor Ben H. Gordon has officially proclaimed the week of May 1-7 as "25th Anniversary Savings Bond Week" in Circleville. He urged all citizens to take an active part in observing the period.

According to Kenneth Fossnaugh, Pickaway County bond chairman, thousands of communities will simultaneously celebrate a quarter century of the familiar little piece of paper that has become a way of life on the American scene.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt bought the first Series E Savings Bond on May 1, 1941. The programs quickly became a part of the war scene.

Bond sales helped to provide Uncle Sam with immediate funds to meet rising World War II costs. People bought them, not only for patriotic reasons, but because it was a good place to store excess income until hard-to-get items would again be available.

***
WHEN the war ended, nearly everyone expected the huge bond sales of four years to dry up to a trickle. But Americans had learned one good lesson — and the habit of thrift stuck. They wanted more bonds, and they got them. From the $30 billion they owned at the end of World War II, their bond hold-

Ohio Master Water Plan Is Goal of Study Group

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Water Commission will meet with a 15-member advisory group next week to begin work on a master water plan for the state.

The meeting will signal the start of "pretty near total effort" toward preparation of a master statewide water plan, S.L. (Jack) Frost, executive secretary of the commission, told The Associated Press.

Gov. James A. Rhodes several weeks ago directed the commission to come up with a master plan, with a view to coordinating work now being done by 914 local and 63 state and federal agencies.

As a start, the commission revised and rejuvenated a large, inactive advisory council. This council's coordinating committee is the group which will meet with the commission May 5 in Bowling Green "to review our approach to this master plan," Frost said. A statewide meeting will be called later with the entire council—composed of members representing agriculture, commerce and industry, recreation, public water users and the public.

A new state agency dealing with water could evolve from the master plan study. The state now has 32 agencies, boards or commissions dealing with water problems.

Any proposals for revising the present agency setup would have to go to the 1967 legislature for action.

Frost said a start toward a coordinated plan has been made in a northwest Ohio proposal. Before the meeting with the advisory group May 5, the commission will hear a report from consultants on the northwestern water plan.

Frost said that plan considers water supply, flood control, pollution, recreation and other factors in a "total water management" approach.

Bond Week Proclaimed In Community

This community will join millions of Americans in jointly observing a silver anniversary next week. May 1 will mark the 25th birthday of the Series E Savings Bond, considered a thrift instrument that has affected the lives of most citizens.

Mayor Ben H. Gordon has officially proclaimed the week of May 1-7 as "25th Anniversary Savings Bond Week" in Circleville. He urged all citizens to take an active part in observing the period.

According to Kenneth Fossnaugh, Pickaway County bond chairman, thousands of communities will simultaneously celebrate a quarter century of the familiar little piece of paper that has become a way of life on the American scene.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt bought the first Series E Savings Bond on May 1, 1941. The programs quickly became a part of the war scene.

Bond sales helped to provide Uncle Sam with immediate funds to meet rising World War II costs. People bought them, not only for patriotic reasons, but because it was a good place to store excess income until hard-to-get items would again be available.

WHEN the war ended, nearly everyone expected the huge bond sales of four years to dry up to a trickle. But Americans had learned one good lesson — and the habit of thrift stuck. They wanted more bonds, and they got them. From the $30 billion they owned at the end of World War II, their bond hold-

Ohio Master Water Plan Is Goal of Study Group

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Water Commission will meet with a 15-member advisory group next week to begin work on a master water plan for the state.

The meeting will signal the start of "pretty near total effort" toward preparation of a master statewide water plan, S.L. (Jack) Frost, executive secretary of the commission, told The Associated Press.

Gov. James A. Rhodes several weeks ago directed the commission to come up with a master plan, with a view to coordinating work now being done by 914 local and 63 state and federal agencies.

As a start, the commission

UCPB Groups Auction Set At Lancaster

United Cerebral Palsy Brace Groups of Lancaster and Fairfield County are announcing their annual "Vacations Auction" to be held 7 p. m. Thursday at the Elks Home, 129 E. Main St., Lancaster.

As of this date 43 excellent vacations, covering many areas of United States, Mexico and Canada have been received. All will be sold to the highest bidder. The auction will be conducted by a professional auctioneer, Scott Rankin, Zanesville. Numerous items, donated by local businesses will be auctioned between vacations.

Successful bidders for vacations will be eligible for a cash drawing at the end of the evening.

Proceeds from this project will go towards the UCP Brace Building Fund, which will be used to provide a treatment center for the cerebral palsied in this area.

revised and rejuvenated a large, inactive advisory council. This council's coordinating committee is the group which will meet with the commission May 5 in Bowling Green "to review our approach to this master plan," Frost said. A statewide meeting will be called later with the entire council—composed of members representing agriculture, commerce and industry, recreation, public water users and the public.

A new state agency dealing with water could evolve from the master plan study. The state now has 32 agencies, boards or commissions dealing with water problems.

Any proposals for revising the present agency setup would have to go to the 1967 legislature for action.

Frost said a start toward a coordinated plan has been made in a northwest Ohio proposal. Before the meeting with the advisory group May 5, the commission will hear a report from consultants on the northwestern water plan.

Frost said that plan considers water supply, flood control, pollution, recreation and other factors in a "total water management" approach.
